to St. Elizabeth Medical Center following the mishap. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and failing to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

STONE'S CAR drove through a fence, knocked down a tree and overturned onto a metal storage shed in the yard of Frank Milster at 1:26 a.m. Sept. 21.

A passenger, David B. Wiser, 21, of 904 N. 25th St. was trapped in the car for over 1½ hours before he could be rescued and taken to SEMC, police said.

It is believed Stone was thrown from the auto.

THE AUTO left 300 feet of skid marks before the crash, police said.

Both Stone and Wiser were listed in stable condition Monday afternoon at SEMC.

Madison levy hearing set

The Madison Board of Education will hold a public hearing concerning the adoption of its budget and tax levy on Thursday, Sept. 25, at 7:30 p.m. The hearing will take place at the board office, 1707 Fourth St., Madison. A regular Madison School Board meeting will be held after the hearing.

Board to consider new member

The District 9 Board of Education was expected to again take up the issue of selecting a new member at its regular meeting Tuesday evening, Sept. 23. At its meeting two weeks ago, the board was unable to reach an agreement on selecting a new member to replace Jerry McKechnan, who resigned four weeks ago. The board must select a new member by Sept. 25, 30 days after McKechnan's resignation, or the decision will be left to Regional Superintendent of Schools Harold "Gene" Briggs.

Tell it like it is

Q: Should Illinois enact a law that allows citizens to recall elected public officials?

John Petish Sr.

"Yes. Illinois should enact a law for citizens to recall elected public officials. That is the only way we can get the school board out of their hiding places behind closed doors."

-Granite City

Marilyn Brandes

"I wouldn't see why we would want to recall them if they have already been elected."

-Granite City

Wanda Baur

Yes. I think it would be a good idea."

Pamela Jean Wiley

GC woman sentenced to 20 years in prison

By Bill Bagby

Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — A 23-year-old Granite City woman was sentenced Thursday to 20 years in prison for the December 1985 murder of Clifford D. Potts.

Pamela Jean Wiley of Kirkpatrick Homes pleaded guilty and was sentenced Thursday, Sept. 18, in Madison County Circuit Court on charges of murder, armed robbery and arson.

ASSOCIATE JUDGE Charles V. Romani Jr. sentenced Wiley to concurrent terms of 20 years for murder, 10 years for armed robbery and seven years for arson.

The sentence was under the terms of a plea agreement decided upon by Wiley's attorney, Public Defender John Rekowski, and Assistant State's Attorney Richard Rybak.

Wiley was the accomplice in the Dec. 30, 1985, murder of Mr. Potts, 50, who lived at 4998 Fairview in south St. Louis.

A MADISON MAN, Charles A. Thompson, 27, pleaded guilty and was sentenced in January 16 25 years in prison for Mr. Potts' murder, even though a body had not been found at that time.

Wiley and Thompson had been drinking with Mr. Potts in an apartment on Second Street in Madison. The two later robbed him at knife-point of about $50.

They took Mr. Potts to the Chain of Rocks Canal, where he was hit over the head with one of the large rocks lining the canal bank and killed. The two dragged Mr. Potts' body into the water.

WILEY and Thompson then took Mr. Potts' car to Granite City after the murder and attempted to burn it.

Mr. Potts' body was not found until March 28, when it was discovered floating in the middle of the canal by a tugboat crew.

Teachers absent less under arrangement

By Dave Gosnell

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — An incentive agreement written into last year's wage package between District 9 teachers and the Board of Education has been a success.

Under the 1985-86 contract, teachers were to receive an across-the-board 1 percent pay increase, in addition to their 7 percent wage hike, if absenteeism among teachers decreased by 10 percent.

The 10-percent goal was reached and the teachers will get the bonus, said District 9 Director of Finance Norm Owca.

"IT WORKED for both sides," said Owca.

The district paid $26,000 less in sick pay to teachers and paid for substitute teachers 577 fewer hours than the previous year. The average teacher took 1½ fewer days off, Owca said.

All savings were distributed to teachers.

The incentive agreement was part of a general agreement offered to all district non-administrative employees that included reductions in the purchase of supplies, better utility management and fewer trips and seminars.

Only the teachers were able to reach the 10 percent figure and were the only group to get the bonus, Owca said.

Owca said the district's overall savings, combined with excess revenue, created a surplus of $900,000 last year.

ABOUT 430 teachers will get an estimated $150,000 in extra pay as part of last year's contract because the incentive goal was reached.

The district had set a minimum surplus goal of $550,000 this year, Owca said. The overall goal is $1 million, he said.

The $550,000 had to be reached before the incentive program would go into effect, under the contract.

Evaluations issue in contract talks

By Dave Gosnell

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Teacher evaluations will be among discussion topics when negotiations resume Thursday between the District 9 Board of Education and teachers.

Also expected to be discussed are salary schedules and the district's financial condition.

The negotiations are for a full contract. The two-year contract ended in August but the union and administrators agreed to extend the contract deadline until an audit report on the district's finances is made available.

The deadline is Nov. 5 or 21 days after the audit report is received, which is expected in early October.

Local American Federation of Teachers President Russ Chappell said teacher evaluations will be important this year.

"There are some things we don't approve of and have to negotiate," Chappell said.

A new state education reform law requires Illinois school districts to draft teacher evaluation plans. Chappell said the union is concerned about procedures for evaluating teachers.

"We have tried to work out objective procedures, not subjective procedures," Chappell said.

The law requires districts to evaluate teachers as "superior," "excellent," "satisfactory" or "unsatisfactory."

Chappell said the categories "mean nothing except if it (an evaluation) is unsatisfactory." A teacher with an unsatisfactory rating could be required to improve his skills, he said.

The ratings will not be associated with merit pay or promotions, Chappell said.

By law, District 9 must submit an evaluation plan to the state by Oct. 1.

Taking a crack at drug testing

Something new is boiling in the pot of city politics. Some aldermen advocate taking a crack at drug testing for all city employees.

The idea may seem better than sunshine to some, but it's a downer to those who wonder about what it would mean from a constitutional standpoint. Though meaning well, those who push drug testing are beginning to take on some of the same paraphernalia evident in the 1950s when contemporaries of Sen. Joe McCarthy forced fellow Americans into signing loyalty oaths. Naturally, not signing at that time could be viewed as an admission of being a Communist. Similarly, those who refuse drug testing as a stupid inconvenience could be viewed as drug users and be penalized.

The use of drug testing implies guilt. Making the guiltless prove themselves innocent is indecent.

If someone is suspected of using drugs, only that person should be investigated. Proper police procedure should be followed and in cases where drug use is proven, an arrest should be made.

The drug issue has drawn national attention and, even at the local level, could be used to advance the political aims of those who aspire to election in coming months. But we see none of it as justification to violate the rights of city employees by subjecting them to needless harassment.

We're with those who advise and practice a policy of "keep off the grass," but we also warn that everyone should watch out for the snakes that may be in it.

Illiteracy a national epidemic

We who would shine light in dark places need not search afar. Millions of Americans are unemployed or under-employed because they can't read a "help wanted ad" or wouldn't know how to fill out a job application.

Twenty-three million of our own home folks don't know enough reading, writing and arithmetic to graduate from the fourth grade.

Another 35 million would never get beyond the eighth grade.

President Reagan says if we really care about our future, our freedoms and the kind of life our children will lead "we must make reading and learning to read a basic priority."

We are going to. And radio and television are going to help.

Anybody physically ailing seeks treatment. Anybody intellectually ailing is likely to try to hide.

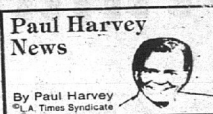

And illiteracy is costly to us all. One illiterate mechanic in the Navy cost you $250,000 because he could not read a repair manual correctly.

A train motorman, unable to read his service manual, was responsible for a fatal train wreck.

Yet, for every horror story, there are a hundred examples of youngsters who, rescued from illiteracy, now lead proud, productive, useful lives.

There are places to go for help—but the illiterate needs help in finding those places.

The American Broadcasting Company and the Public Broadcasting Service are collaborating in a concerted effort to bring together the Americans who are illiterate and the others who can help them.

By Paul Harvey
C.A. Times Syndicate

Special programs will focus on the several aspects of the problem.

This is not just a problem of schoolchildren. Adult illiteracy is more common than we have imagined.

A Ford employee in Detroit bluffed his way past job applications, menus and all-written material. Had his wife read the mail, pay the bills, do the banking.

A computer company worker, illiterate, bluffed his way up the corporate ladder until he was making $75,000 a year. Then the bottom fell out.

And, as we have seen, there are real hazards in such deceit.

An industrial worker almost killed several people because he could not read assembly instructions. A mother did kill her baby because she could not read measuring instructions on the formula.

Project Literacy, U.S. — PLUS — is going to reveal that one of the world's "backward nations" is us — U.S. — but that this sickness we can cure!

Once a defense lawyer, always?

To the editor:

What a "hay-day" for lawbreakers in Madison County! I can't believe that State's Attorney Dick Allen actually said, "You can hardly load up (DUI fines, etc.) on a defendant." But he did.

Wasn't his statement to be expected?

State's Attorney Allen is and always will be primarily an attorney for the defense of lawbreakers. He has never been, nor is he now, a prosecutor for the people who desire law, order and justice.

Bring on these lawbreakers, boys!

Bring on these lawbreakers, boys!

Madison County has become the mecca, the prime crime corner, of the State of Illinois where the "good guys" (Special Prosecutor Locher) go to jail and the "bad guys" just snicker.

GC students encouraged to sign for test

GRANITE CITY — High school sophomores and juniors are being encouraged to register for the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test of the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT-NMQST).

Those students in the upper quarter of their class are particularly being urged to take the test.

The test will be administered Tuesday, Oct. 21, at GCIS. Students can register beginning Oct. 1.

The test could qualify juniors to enter competition for National Merit Scholarships. They also may then participate in the College Board's Student Search Service, which gives students an opportunity to hear from colleges they might not otherwise investigate.

The test measures verbal and mathematical aptitudes and gives students an opportunity to find out what the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) is like, said Sandy Kopsky, a counselor at GCIS. She said the test is an important step in making college plans.

With their score reports, students will receive a copy of "About Your PSAT-NMQST Scores," a booklet containing information on estimating SAT scores, finding out where to get and how to use detailed information on colleges and financial aid, and planning for financial aid.

Students may register at the high school guidance office before and after school. Student bulletins will be available upon payment of the $5 testing fee.

The test is co-sponsored by the College Board and the National Merit Scholarship Corp.

The purpose of this social is to acquaint the community with Lioness objectives as well as projects that have been carried out by the club during the past nine years.

Refreshments will be served. All women of the community are invited to attend, Judy Wasson, chairman, said.

Police investigating GC stabbing

GRANITE CITY — Authorities are investigating the stabbing early Monday of two Granite City men.

Carl Witt, of 1610 Kirkpatrick Homes, was found by Granite City authorities at 3:25 a.m. Sept. 22 in an apartment at 2107 Kirkpatrick. He had been stabbed several times in the chest, police said.

Witt's stepson, Troy Phillips, had also been stabbed, police related. He suffered small cuts on his neck and hand.

The stabbings apparently occurred at Witt's home, police said. Phillips, who was covered with blood, said he helped Witt to the apartment at 2107 Kirkpatrick since Witt's apartment did not have a telephone.

Both men were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Schmalenberger named vice chancellor

Larry A. Schmalenberger of Mascoutah has been named vice chancellor for administrative services by the Belleville Area College Board of Trustees.

The board voted unanimously Sept. 17 in favor of Schmalenberger. The college had conducted a nationwide search for the position and selected him over a field of 30 candidates.

Schmalenberger had served as interim vice chancellor since July, following the retirement of James Hines. Schmalenberger previously served as the first president of BAC's Red Bud Campus, which opened in January 1985.

Schmalenberger, 47, has a bachelor's degree in business administration from Ohio State University and a master's degree in education from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

County board gives nod to cable firm's takeover

Madison County is apparently the first governmental entity to consent to the takeover of South-Western Cable TV Ltd. by Cencom Cable. The county board Wednesday passed a resolution granting its permission for the takeover, which officials have said is scheduled to be completed by the end of October. Representatives of South-Western, based in Maryville, and Cencom have been visiting cities served by the cable company in hopes of getting the required written permission for the buyout.

MADISON Rough railroad crossings south of 14th Street, on both Madison and Grand avenues, were discussed by Madison city officials at the Sept. 9 City Council meeting.

Officials voiced concern about difficulties motorists are encountering when they drive across the two rail crossings. Alderman Robert Grieve called attention to the problem. Mayor John Bellcoff said railroad representatives are in the process of having all their crossings repaired, but no date has been set for the work to begin in Madison.

Aldermen agreed to pay the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund to make up the amount owed that fund for Venice Township Supervisor Christ Pashoff. The payment will take into account his former services performed for the city.

Officials said Pashoff is entitled to participation in the IMRF as a Madison city employee for 107 months, a span of nearly nine years.

They also agreed to assume responsibility for employee Social Security taxes if such taxes have not been paid on the omitted service earnings for Pashoff.

The council approved a request from Norris Horton, city health officer, that he be allowed to participate in the IMRF plan.

Council members granted permission to Project Help to conduct a fund-raising roadblock at 12th Street and Madison Avenue from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Nov. 7 and 8 to benefit the unemployed.

Bills amounting to $75,957 were approved to be paid.

STUDENTS listen as a Press-Record/Journal newsman discusses ideas about how to start a newspaper and what to put in it.

Student newspaper at Grigsby

By Dave Gosnell

GRANITE CITY — It's not the New York Times but this school newspaper will do most things other newspapers do — print news, editorials and sports and sell advertising.

As a special project, eighth-graders in the gifted class at Grigsby Jr. High will be hard at work creating a newspaper.

Students in the class will write all the news and sell the advertising, said their teacher, Irene Rhodes. It is the class's first attempt at creating a newspaper.

"They are going to do everything," Rhodes said.

The students will use a special computer program called "Newsroom" created for design and layout of school newspapers. The program even has the capability of creating graphics to run with the stories.

"We will see what we can do with it," Rhodes said.

The newspaper will be designed and printed on 8½-by-11-inch paper and will have more than one page, Rhodes said.

Students expressed interest in writing about the Grigsby football team, issues of concern to students, and writing about upcoming events.

The newspaper, which does not yet have a name, is expected to hit the streets, or school grounds, later this fall, said Rhodes.

Two men charged in store theft

GRANITE CITY — Two St. Louis men were arrested Sept. 16 after they allegedly took $85 from a cash register at Earl's Sporting Goods, 3875 Nameoki Road.

Ronald L. Harshaw, 35, and Michael L. Harshaw, 36, were both charged with theft by Granite City police. A third man involved in the incident was held for questioning but was released without being charged.

A clerk at the store told police she was waiting on a man, learned to be Michael Harshaw, when he picked up a 37-cent comb from a counter.

As Michael handed the clerk $1 to pay for the comb, the clerk opened the cash register to return the change. However, Michael said he would pay for the comb with the change. As he handed the change to the clerk, he dropped it on the floor, she said.

When the clerk attempted to pick up the change, the other man, whom police did not charge, came into the store and started talking to the clerk while Michael allegedly was directing the clerk's attention away from the cash register.

Another clerk witnessed what was happening and called Granite City police. Michael and the other man left the store and got into a yellow car, where Ronald Harshaw allegedly was waiting. The three men fled northbound on Nameoki Road (Illinois 203).

The other clerk stopped Granite City realtor Rod Flood, who was passing by the store, and told him she thought the store had been robbed. Flood then followed the vehicle on Nameoki Road. Police joined the pursuit and finally apprehended the three men on Illinois 203 one mile west of its intersection with Interstate 270.

Both men pleaded guilty to the charges in Granite City court the following day.

Michael Harshaw was fined $150 and sentenced to one year of supervision by Judge Wendell Durr. Ronald Harshaw, who was also charged with speeding and driving without a valid license, was fined $300 and sentenced to a year of supervision.

Validity of annexation sought in suit

A lawsuit had been filed asking that a judge determine if Glen Carbon's annexation of Sunset Hill Cemetery last spring is valid.

The suit was filed Sept. 15 in Madison County Circuit Court in Edwardsville by the Sunset Hill Cemetery Association, Sunset Hill Trust Estate and attorney R.W. Griffith Jr., a trustee of both the cemetery association and estate.

The village of Glen Carbon is named as defendant.

Griffith said the suit was filed over a technicality. It claims the late Roy Barney submitted a petition for annexation to the village without proper authority. Barney signed annexation papers as the authorized representative of Sunset Hill Trust Estate.

Griffith said that, though the estate and association do not oppose the annexation, they want to be sure it is valid. The estate has since voted Barney's actions were unauthorized but also voted to annex all land owned by the trust to the village.

SEMC, other hospitals on front line in war on drugs

Success in the national war on drugs "would be perhaps the most beneficial domestic achievement of any presidential administration in the last 25 years," Kenneth C. Robbins says. He is president of the Illinois Hospital Association.

He cited chemical dependency programs at 59 hospitals, including St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City.

"The hospitals of Illinois have long had a growing front-line involvement in this area. We are hopeful and confident this new impetus at the national level will have a powerful benefit for the nation and the communities of Illinois," Robbins said last week.

Robbins referred to the national program developed under the administration of President Ronald Reagan, a program which Reagan and his wife, Nancy, explained in a televised address to the nation Sunday evening, Sept. 14.

"The president's deep interest in this national problem coincides with polls showing that substance abuse in our schools and our workplaces is the public's number one concern right now," Robbins said. "And the evidence shows it is truly a major problem."

He noted research indicating that one in 10 Illinoisans has had a serious drug problem, with corresponding problems in business and industry, in the schools and in the crime rate.

Statistics indicate drug abuse cost the state more than $7 billion in 1980 alone, with $1 billion attributed to crime-related costs.

Of the nearly 240 community hospitals in Illinois, 59 of them have formal inpatient programs to treat the chemically dependent, and many others have outpatient services.

"Many of these programs are new. They have been established to respond to a clear community need," Robbins said.

In 1984, the number of drug-related admissions to Illinois hospitals rose to 8,500, up from 7,400 the year before. In that time, the number of cocaine-related admissions tripled.

As an example of a new program, the "Lifeway" program of treatment for chemically dependent adolescents at Pkittin Memorial Hospital has been in place for 18 months.

Robert Moore, vice president of the hospital, said, "Our research indicated there are at least 500 severely chemically dependent young people, ages 12 to 18, in the seven-county area we serve. They are the reason for our program."

Al Bodie, director of the chemical dependency program at MacCluer Hospital in Bevely and president of the Illinois Hospital Alcohol Treatment Administrators Forum, said half of all Illinoisans seeking treatment for substance abuse do so in a hospital setting.

"Ten years ago, 90 percent of all admissions (to such programs) were for alcohol-related treatment. Today, 40 percent of all such admissions are for multiple abuse problems."

He said the largest increase is for abuse of cocaine and that most people treated for multiple abuse have a history of alcoholism or heavy drinking.

Robbins said:

• ILLINOIS' DRUG PROBLEM IS A MICROCOSM OF THE NATION.

In Illinois, the fifth most populous state in the nation with nearly 11,600,000 residents, more than 10 percent of the adult population — 900,000 — has a chemical dependency problem. Of these, at least 80,000 are adult drug addicts or abusers.

Adolescents are even more prone to substance abuse. Almost 300,000 Illinois children from the ages of 10 to 17 suffer the consequences of chemical dependency. And the number is expected to increase in the future.

Drug enforcement specialists consider Illinois to be one of the primary heroin and illicit drug distribution centers in the U.S.

• SUBSTANCE ABUSE IS A SIGNIFICANT CAUSE OF DEATH IN ILLINOIS.

More than 5,000 Illinois residents lose their lives each year as a consequence of substance abuse.

The major causes of death are cirrhosis of the liver and other diseases, drug overdose, homicide and suicide, and motor vehicle accident.

• SUBSTANCE ABUSE AND CRIME GO HAND IN HAND. Both alcohol and drug abuse have been implicated in a large percentage of Index Crimes (like homicides, kidnappings, sex crimes, arson assaults, armed robberies, forgery and larceny) in Illinois.

Estimates based on a 1977 study by the National Institute of Alcoholism and Alcohol Abuse show more than 250,000 of the 596,000 Index Crimes offenses for Illinois in 1983 were committed by chemically dependent offenders.

Further, estimates suggest that every 200 heroin addicts account for between 50,000 and 70,000 crimes per year. Many of these are property crimes that remain unreported.

• SUBSTANCE ABUSE DRAINS

ILLINOIS' POCKETBOOK.

The economic costs of chemical dependency to Illinois are staggering. In 1980, the toll to residents of the state was almost $7 billion. The figure is much higher today.

More than 50 percent of this total is attributed to the value of reduced productivity in the workforce.

Further, the cost of motor vehicle crashes related to substance abuse in Illinois is estimated to be $135 million, while the losses from alcohol and drug-related crime are put at $1 billion. This figure includes costs for public and private criminal justice activities, lost employment, and family support for crime victims, incarceration for offenders, and the costs of criminal careers.

• HELP IS AVAILABLE. Those seeking help from hospital-based and free-standing programs approved by the Illinois Department of Alcoholism and Substance Abuse are increasing.

More than 1,500 patients sought treatment in 1984 (the last year for which statistics were available), up from 7,400 the year before.

The greatest increases were seen in admissions for marijuana/hashish abuse (1,781 from 1,263) and for cocaine (1,027 from 581).

GC Steel aids rescue

Granite City Steel's security department took part in a rescue mission in Pilot Knob, Mo.

Jim Colp of the GCS security staff received a call on Sept. 13 from the National Mine Rescue Commission that portable power pumps were urgently needed to lift a 30-ton boulder off the legs of a trapped teenager near an old Pilot Knob mine.

Marvin Owca, manager of plant protection, was on standby to accompany the GCS portable power pump equipment to the rescue site from Parks Bi-State Airport, Cahokia, at about midnight.

An airlift by the U.S. Air Force rushed the equipment early Sept. 14 to Pilot Knob, where rescuers used the pumps in the successful attempt to free the teenage boy after an 18-hour ordeal.

Owca said GCS was able to be of service in the emergency rescue operation because of the "expedient and cooperative efforts" of Security Guards Jim Colp and John Slott, along with Claude Kessler, Yard Maintenance, and Ed McElroy, SW Garage.

Judge will release drug trial tapes

A federal judge has agreed to release transcripts of tapes being played by prosecutors in a drug trial in Alton, although he admitted he doesn't necessarily like the decision himself. The defendants include Granite Citizens.

"I'm not impressed with the media's protestations of the public's right to know," said Judge William Beatty of Granite City before rendering his decision.

The tapes are being played during the trial of eight men prosecutors charge are part of the largest drug ring in Southern Illinois since "The Company" was broken up several years ago. Preliminaries of the trial began last week and it is expected to continue for the next few weeks.

Beatty, of Granite City, held a hearing on the release of transcripts in his chambers Sept. 15.

Attorneys for the defendants argued against release of the transcripts to the press, citing the possibility of prejudice against their clients by repeated, detailed articles about the trial and the secretly recorded conversations between defendants and FBI informants.

However, U.S. Attorney Frederick Bess said transcripts were finally released to the press after a similar dispute in the trial of reputed organized crime leader Matthew "Mike" Trupiano in East St. Louis in July, and the jury acquitted Trupiano.

Beatty agreed to release the transcripts as they are given to the jury when each tape is played. The judge said he felt obligated to allow access because of other cases which set such a precedent.

Defense lawyers then began a round of attempts to stall the trial so they could appeal the decision to sequester the jurors to make certain they saw no news coverage of the trial. Beatty denied all such motions.

Attorney Gage Sherwood, representing Earl Bond, 32, of Chesterfield, who prosecutors claim is the head of the ring, asked for the trial to be postponed because of national publicity on the drug problem, including a nationally televised speech by President and Mrs. Reagan Sunday.

Jurors may feel exceptional pressure to convict the men because of the drug furor, even if they are not certain of their guilt, Sherwood said. Beatty said he watched the Reagans' address to specifically listen for any comments that would affect the way jurors would feel about defendants in drug trials, and he did not hear any.

The judge did, however, agree to poll the jurors before the trial began to ask them if they had heard or read anything that would impair their ability to be objective jurors. "You have to have some confidence in the jury system," Beatty said.

Anti-terrorist, fraud laws signed in state

Gov. James R. Thompson on Sept. 17 signed into law legislation that makes various para-military and terrorist group activities Class 4 felonies.

"With increasing frequency in recent years, we have been shocked by the seemingly senseless acts of terrorism that have taken innocent lives around the world. And with each successive act of terror and civil disorder, we ask ourselves the same questions about how it could have happened and how we can protect ourselves against such vicious acts," the governor said.

"Rhetoric is no match for guns in the hands of those who act only to disrupt. We must have stronger laws and we must give law enforcement agencies the legal tools they need to deter extremist activities before they take root."

"With this new law, we have the means to stop terrorists before they strike. Terrorism has had limited success in this nation. But we must continue to build safeguards into our legal system to assure it will never gain a stronghold — so we in Illinois will never have to ask ourselves how it could have happened here."

Senate Bill 2006 makes it unlawful to teach or demonstrate the use, application or production of explosive devices or techniques which could result in injury or death when it is known that what has been taught will be used unlawfully. The legislation also prohibits assembling to learn how to use these dangerous devices for unlawful or disruptive purposes.

The legislation protects law-abiding citizens by including an "intent" stipulation. A person must know his or her actions are intended for unlawful purposes to be in violation of the law. People who should be allowed to use and practice with these devices, such as law enforcement officials, federal agents, the armed forces and shooting clubs, are exempt. The law is effective January 1, 1987.

Thompson also signed Senate Bill 1957, effective immediately, which denies certain state benefits to any person associated with the Nazi government and under deportation order because of his past acts of persecution. Benefits such as public aid assistance, homestead exemptions and certain senior citizen grants and exemptions would be denied under these circumstances.

Other provisions of SB 1957 include:

• Expanding the offense of retail theft to include returning or attempting to return stolen merchandise for refund or credit.

• Creating the offense of odometer fraud, which is defined as the disconnection, resetting, altering or attempting to alter an odometer with fraudulent intent. The first offense is a Class A misdemeanor. Subsequent violation is a Class 4 felony.

• Amending the Violent Crime Act's Bill of Rights for Victims and Witnesses to provide that crime victims have the right to receive, through their attorneys, copies of all notices, motions and court orders filed in the case.

Thompson also gave his approval to Senate Bill 1855 which makes language and technical changes in the Illinois Credit Union Act, providing that all unions must provide adequate fidelity bond coverage for directors and committee members and for losses caused by persons outside of the credit union.

giving the director of the Department of Financial Institutions the authority to conduct special examinations of credit unions, and allowing credit unions to invest in Israel Bonds that are guaranteed by the U.S. It is effective immediately.

The governor signed House Bill 3230, which amends the Township Law of 1874, giving a board of trustees the right to postpone its annual town meeting when it conflicts with Passover.

Schnucks offers car seat belts

September is national Supermarket Child Safety Month and in support of it Schnucks is encouraging customers to use Safe-Strap shopping cart seat belts when taking small children on grocery shopping trips.

Schnucks was one of the first supermarkets to install Safe-Strap seat belts for children. The belts are designed to keep small children from falling out of the shopping cart. The original idea of safety belts for children resulted from a Consumer Products Safety Commission report that 9,000 shopping cart accidents occurred annually involving children under the age of 5.

Ganz not a typical volunteer

By Mary Flick

At St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Patient Transport is a typical volunteer service. But Orville Ganz is hardly a typical volunteer. Ganz has been called a full-time volunteer, working 40-hour weeks, now that he is retired and coordinating a service which, he says, is held together by volunteers, junior volunteers and Divine Providence. He rejects any title but "lead person," and insists, "I'm not a boss. I'm just a volunteer, like everyone else."

But anyone who logged 1,476 volunteer hours last year — the most by any SEMC volunteer in 1985 — is not like everyone else. "Orville really is the Patient Transport area," said Joyce Epperson, acting director of SEMC's Volunteer Services. "With his walking cane unobtrusively propped against the wall behind his desk, Ganz is in full command of an area that justifies its existence by the number of hours its workers are out of the office."

From his room in the X-ray wing, Ganz acts as the medical center's second switchboard, answering calls from every floor, and sending a volunteer with a wheelchair to transport patients from the lobby to their rooms, or to a lab, or to deliver cigarettes or bingo cards to their bedside.

"What we're doing is seeing that the nurses and nurses' aides are not taken away from the floor, so they have more time to devote to their patients," Ganz said.

But he is doing more than that. He documents each run a transporter makes, and the amount of time each run takes.

His records show that in 1985, Patient Transport made 5,099 transfers, which took volunteers 1,474.3 hours to complete. In the first six months of this year alone, the department has made 3,670 transfers requiring 888.9 hours.

But the payoff for Ganz is beyond what money could bring him. "You cannot put it in dollars and cents," he said. "To have the feeling you are doing something that is helping other people — and to receive the gratitude that people show — is greater than any pay you could receive."

He did not go to SEMC for pay, anyway. Ganz began volunteering at SEMC four years ago, after reaching what he calls "the golden age of 65."

"I thought it (retirement) was going to be great," he said. But after four months of sitting at home with nothing to do, he knew he had to get involved in something. That was when he and a friend, Bernie Pinsky, came to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

"Where else does one volunteer in Granite City?" he asked.

Beginning at the Binney Information Desk, and then moving out to the Circle Desk, Ganz learned the medical center under the supervision of St. Mary's Linus. Then along came Patient Transport. It opened in February 1984.

His paid employment experience served him well in his new job. He had been a supervisor at the Madison County Nursing Home, his last paid position.

Before that, he had worked in retail positions and earlier had served as secretary to the Piecework Rate Division of General Steel Castings — 13 years of collecting and quantifying numbers — as he now accounts for transfers and hours. "Running a tight ship" is part of the territory for Ganz.

The volunteers who work in Patient Transport feel as strongly about the local area as Ganz does.

"Maybe it's because Granite City isn't such a large town, and in a day's time, you come in contact with someone you know; it's a friendly meeting, and you find a feeling of friendship."

"We have few complainers," Ganz said of the clientele his department serves. "Patients are nice to the transporters and often want to give them tips, which we decline. I think it's all in one's attitude. If you approach people with a smile, they will forget their own bitterness and smile back."

A smile is one of the first things you notice when you meet Ganz. The lifelong Granite City resident obviously finds satisfaction in what he does. And he is not shy in saying that the appreciation he receives is what keeps him going.

Besides the regular hospital volunteers, Ganz also works with Junior Volunteers, Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) of Madison County employees, and men from the Alcohol Rehabilitation Community Home (ARCH). It is his work with the ARCH volunteers that has impressed him the most.

"Many of those from ARCH who have volunteered in my department have gotten jobs here or elsewhere," Ganz said. "They come back to visit and, when they do, they say the greatest reward they received from working here was that they got back a feeling of self-respect."

"Their gratitude — and knowing that I have given them confidence and helped them earn their self-respect again — it means so much."

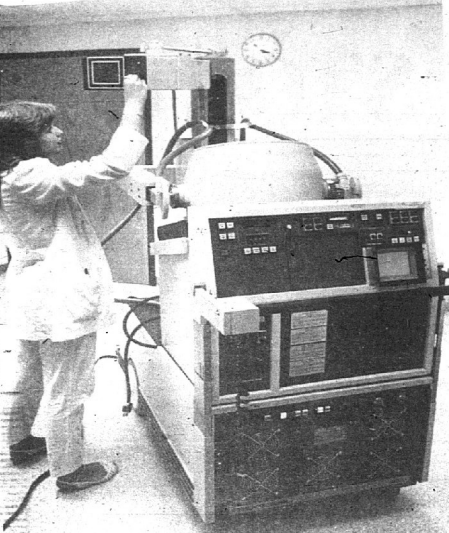

So does the Christmas card he received last year with personal notes of appreciation from the medical center administrators. Ganz was so touched by it he had the card framed and hung on his wall.

"You always receive more than you give," he said. "It's a two-way street. That's what I try to instill in the people working here, too."

The 70-year-old seems likely to have quite a few more good years of working himself.

"I guess I'll stay as long as my health holds up," and St. Mary Thomas (SEMC) chairman and Mr. (President Ted) Eilerman are satisfied with what he does, he said.

"Now, that's job security," they added.

CANDACE CANDELA, nuclear medicine technologist, prepares a portable camera for transport.

Nuclear medicine has bedside manner

A new portable nuclear medicine camera is making bedside nuclear medicine procedures possible for critically ill patients at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

George Garrigus, SEMC's director of radiology, said the unit recently purchased a replacement for a 12-year-old stationary camera.

The 2,000-pound motorized system produces high-resolution images and is ideal for cardiac imaging, Garrigus said.

Stationed in the Nuclear Medicine Department, the camera can be transported bedside when necessary to obtain examinations of critically ill patients, who are usually on life-support equipment.

"This new equipment allows us to expand our services beyond the department," Garrigus said. He emphasized, however, that all ambulatory patients still will be taken to the Nuclear Medicine Department for required procedures.

In addition to standard examinations, the camera allows for computer-enhanced procedures, including cardiac and dynamic imaging, which can be performed in the 6-Doctors' Special Procedure Room.

"This (portable) nuclear service will provide patients and physicians with both high-quality images and convenience at a reduced risk," Garrigus said.

New crackdown on child abuse

Steps that continue the effort to ensure the safety of children in Illinois as well as strengthening child abuse investigation tools have been unveiled.

"The problem of preventing child abuse is a difficult one to solve. Often, no matter how innovative or how diligent the courts, police or social agencies are in Illinois, there will be people who abuse the young and defenseless. When that happens, we in government must respond," Gov. James Thompson said.

"That system of response must be reviewed periodically and strengthened when necessary. Cooperation between departments, the criminal justice community and lawmakers is a vital ingredient."

The new steps, announced this week by Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS) Director Gordon Johnson, are a combination of government-law enforcement agreements and multi-department investigation arrangements to strengthen the state's ability to investigate abuse cases in which the child suffers serious injury or death.

"Illinois is a leader among states when it comes to the prevention of child abuse, treatment of its victims and prosecution of offenders," said Johnson.

"The governor has just approved legislation that gives greater funding flexibility to facilities which assist abuse victims during trial proceedings, permitting them to solicit and accept contributions from private organizations which also receive government funding."

New legislation will be introduced during the November veto session to hold non-abusing custodial parents responsible for the safety of their children.

Until the legislature approves the measure, judges will be encouraged to issue "dual-protective" orders which prohibit the abuser from having contact with the child and subject the custodial parent to a contempt of court citation if the order is violated. The move is regarded as a step toward protecting children from "paramour" abuse.

Part of that process includes funding for a training program to make more judges aware of the legal remedies they have for protecting children from abuse and keeping youngsters away from the abuser. The program will be a joint effort of the Illinois court system, the State's Attorneys Association and DCFS.

To strengthen serious-abuse investigation methods, DCFS and the State Police Division of Criminal Investigation have completed a working agreement for joint investigations. Key points of the pact include:

- State Police will become involved in all child death investigations, or the investigation as it is handled by a local police department.

- State Police will become involved in all DCFS priority investigations, probes that involve bone fractures, physical torture, severe sexual abuse or open wounds.

To complement that agreement, the legislature will be asked to create a more serious offense for persons who commit multiple batteries within a three-year period.

Lawmakers also will be asked to provide an exception to the 90-day period for filing child abuse or neglect reports, eliminating the need for DCFS to file a report until a criminal investigation is completed.

Teen drunk driving target of new laws

New laws are aimed at further reducing the number of accidents caused by teenagers drinking and driving.

A spokesman said the fight against teen drunk drinking has intensified on every front — in schools, homes and churches. Laws have been tightened and highways and state borders are being patrolled to discourage minors from drinking and then driving.

The new laws tell adults they cannot serve teenagers liquor or help them rent a room where they can drink, and then turn their backs on the outcome of these actions.

Senate Bills 1576 and 1577 amend the Liquor Control Act of 1934 to make providing a hotel or motel room to a minor for the purpose of drinking alcohol a Class C misdemeanor. The adult who provides a motel or hotel room for underage drinking will be held liable for the personal or property damages caused by the intoxicated minor who used it.

State Sen. Bob Kustra of Des Plaines, who sponsored both bills, said, "With school homecomings just around the corner, I hope the signing of these bills will serve as a reminder to adults, especially parents, that they can no longer help their high schoolers rent hotel rooms for late-night parties without being held responsible for the consequences."

Senate Bill 2165 will impose stiff automobile license suspensions on minors convicted of drunk driving. It establishes grounds for legal action against out-of-state drunk patrons are involved in drunk driving accidents in Illinois.

Sen. David Barkhausen of Lake Bluff said, "The fact that Wisconsin has raised its drinking age will totally halt the tragedies along our 'blood border.' We must be sure the sanctions of Illinois law apply to Wisconsin lawbreakers."

The bill also provides for one-year revocation of a minor's driving license if he or she is convicted of driving under the influence of drugs or alcohol, after which a restricted license can be issued for one year or until the driver reaches age 21.

Madison County Board renews nature trail lease

The Madison County Board on Sept. 17 approved over opposition, a one-year renewal of the county's lease on the Madison County Nature Trail property.

Although the county leases the trail, the annual lease payment of $633 is provided by the Madison County Nature Trail Volunteers Inc., a private group which also maintains the trail.

The trail extends from the area of Montclair Shopping Center in Edwardsville to Ponton Beach. An unused railroad right-of-way, the property is owned by the Norfolk and Southern Corp.

County officials had considered ending the lease because of concerns about liability for injuries that might be suffered there, but the board's County Buildings Committee had recommended its renewal.

Board member H. Jack Frandsen, D-Alabamora, a member of the committee who opposed renewal, told other board members Wednesday that sponsorship of the trail opens the county to substantial liability for injuries.

Frandsen said the county is liable for up to the $50,000 deductible limit of its River Township policy, and because of a "hold harmless" provision in the lease, is also responsible for any judgment against the railroad, for which the county has no insurance coverage.

Board member Anthony Bosich, D-Wood River, noted, however, that the resolution stipulates that the volunteer group find a trail sponsor other than the county by Aug. 1, 1987.

"We can't let recreation property go down the line," he said, urging support for the resolution.

Another supporter, board member Richard Worth, D-Alton, said there are "few instances, where private citizens come up with the money" for such a facility.

Board member William R. Haine, D-Alton, said there have been no injury claims in the 12 years the county has leased the trail. He said the county provides numerous services and operates many facilities, all of which carry some liability for damage claims.

"I don't know what the beef is," said Haine of opposition to the county's lease.

Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer, D-Granite City, said tall weeds grow along the trail in the Ponton Beach area and added: "The number of people who use it is very, very minimal." The resolution was approved in a 22-6 vote.

In other actions, the board: • Authorized county participation in litigation for administrative review of the Illinois Property Tax Appeal Board's sharp reduction of the assessment on Illinois Power Company's power plant in Wood River Township. Other affected taxing districts also are participating in a lawsuit filed this week in Circuit Court.

• Awarded a $66,884 contract to Granite Sheet Metal Works Inc. of Granite City for interior remodeling at the county's courthouse Annex building in Edwardsville. The bid was the lowest of five submitted.

Barr may be named to fill in on bench

SPRINGFIELD — Former veteran Madison County Circuit Judge Joseph J. Barr, 65, of Wood River is being considered for "recall" to the bench to fill the vacancy created by the retirement of Judge William E. Johnson in June.

Barr did not apply but the court "has been starting a practice of recalling retired judges who are physically and mentally fit to serve and his (Barr's) name came up among others."

Illinois Supreme Court Justice Joseph H. Goldenhersh of Belleville said Sept. 18.

Barr retired in 1982 after 32 years as a judge. He has been practicing law "off and on" for about the last three years, he said.

Barr said Thursday he "wasn't even thinking about" returning to the bench when contacted by Goldenhersh recently.

He said he would accept the appointment for the remaining two years of Johnson's term (which would be filled by election in November 1989) if it is offered.

"There are a lot of other candidates. Whatever he (Goldenhersh) does is all right with me," Barr said.

As the justice from the district that includes the Madison-Bond counties' Third Circuit, Goldenhersh makes recommendations for appointments to fill those circuit judge vacancies.

As a part of the high court's recent policy of deciding to tap a pool of experienced "manpower" among retired judges to fill new vacancies, it has recalled nine or 10 judges to the bench in Chicago and St. Louis, four downstate, Goldenhersh said.

He emphasized he had not made a decision on recommending a candidate for appointment to the Madison County vacancy.

He also said the candidates who have applied are still under consideration, as well as Barr.

"I haven't said what's going to happen. We (the court) haven't had time to talk about it. We've had a lot of emergencies lately," Goldenhersh added. He said it is possible the appointment could be made soon.

Incumbent associate judges Nicholas Byron, Paul E. Riley and Wendell Durr and former associate judge Roy W. Strawn have applied for the appointment to the vacancy created by Johnson's disability retirement three months ago.

Johnson had not actually worked for the county since being retired because of his illness.

Barr receives a pension of $48,875 a year, which could increase if he returns for additional service on the bench.

If Barr were to be appointed and serve until a judge is next elected, his pension would increase by $8,000 a year if he then retired again.

Dream Factory benefit set

Del Mar Gardens West Inc., a retirement center, is sponsoring a fund-raising benefit on Sunday, Sept. 28, at 6:30 p.m. at the St. Louis Dream Factory.

"A Dream Come True" will be the theme when the center is converted to a "Love Boat" setting. All those with "passports" will become part of a make-believe cruise and enjoy gourmet dining, casino, activities and nightclub entertainment.

Numerous "fabulous" prizes will be auctioned off in exchange for winnings from the games. Tickets are being sold for a seven-day Caribbean cruise for two, a week for two at the Spa of Isajamar, or a color television.

Del Mar Gardens West is located in west St. Louis at Highway 40 and Mason Road.

The St. Louis Dream Factory, the recipient, is an organization that fulfills dreams of seriously ill children. President Jack Solberger of Granite City said.

Popilchaks parents of their first child

The Rev. and Mrs. Nick (Alicia) Popilchak of Granite City are announcing the birth of their first child, a girl, on Sept. 18 at Memorial Hospital in Belleville.

The infant weighed 6 pounds, 12 ounces, and has been named Victoria Nicole.

Maternal grandmother is Mae Hendrickson and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John (Mildred) Popilchak, all of Granite City.

Steel prices to rise here

National Steel Corp. said Friday that effective Jan. 4, 1987, it will increase its base prices on sheet steel and on tin mill products: $15 per net ton on hot rolled, $20 per net ton on cold rolled, $30 per net ton on coated galvanized products, and for tin mill products, approximately $15 per ton.

National's action will raise prices by an average of about 3 percent across its product lines.

The firm, with headquarters in Pittsburgh, owns Granite City Steel. National Intergrupp Inc. of Pittsburgh and by Nippon Kokan of Japan.

Teachers absent less

tion of Teachers, the Granite City teachers' union, agreed to the incentive program at the request of the administration, said Local 743 president Russ Chappell. He agreed the incentive was successful.

BUT CHAPPELL SAID he did not know if an incentive clause would be included in negotiations on a new full contract this year.

Talks continue

District 9 Personnel Director Terry Salem said the district will submit evaluation procedures by that date but the procedures could afterwards be changed.

"Some of it is negotiable. It can be negotiated and amended later," Salem said.

Chappell said he is concerned about administrators making subjective decisions on teachers' job performances.

Of the eight articles on the negotiating table, most are "tied to money," Chappell said.

Though not specifying what the union was asking for regarding a wage increase, Chappell said it appeared to him the district was in good financial condition and that the state increased its aid to schools this year with the purpose of upgrading teachers' salaries.

Chappell said the purpose of more state aid was "not to get the coffers of the district empty."

District 9 Director of Finances

"We haven't reached that decision. It was their (the Board of Education's) idea," he said.

Board negotiator Monroe Worthen said he did not know if the board would seek to include an incentive clause in this year's negotiations.

"At the time, it was a one-time thing. But, who knows?" Worthen said.

Donation to art department

Granite City Glass and Fence Co. has donated $700 worth of lights to the Granite City High School Art Department.

The track-type lighting system will be used to enhance "Art Purchase Award Paintings" at the high school.

Repair agreement for telephones

The district has entered into an agreement with ConTel Phone Co. to provide servicing for the district's phone system as needed. The agreement calls for ConTel to provide labor and materials on a per-call basis.

The district bought its phone system from ConTel. The original equipment guarantee expired on Sept. 12.

Training grant applied for

The district has applied for a state grant that would support a number of programs for staff and curriculum development.

The district is asking $11,619 for support of the school's In-service Training Program ($5,000), funding for the Curriculum Committee ($1,200) and for the continuation of the Language Arts Curriculum ($3,200). The grant would also give funds that would allow two faculty members to attend major national educational conferences such as the International Reading Conference.

Accomplishments to be featured

District 9 will once again feature accomplishments of students, teachers and staff in the school system through the "Spotlight" section in the Granite City Press-Record Journal.

Throughout the school year, the "spotlight" will be on individuals who have been honored by their peers or who have achieved distinction in some way. Many students will be recognized for reading 100 books in a given amount of time. Interested persons may check with school administrators for details.

Student loan defaulters face loss of tax refund

If you are behind in payments on an Illinois Guaranteed Student Loan Program (IGLP) loan and you think you're going to get a federal tax refund next year, think again.

The Illinois State Scholarship Commission (ISSC) has, for the second consecutive year, entered into an agreement with the U.S. Department of Education to assign certain defaulted student loans for offset of the borrower's tax refund.

Under terms of the agreement, ISSC has assigned to the U.S. loans which are 120 days or more behind in payment. The U.S. will in turn assign the account, plus a servicing fee, to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) for offset against any federal tax refund due.

If the debtor pays the loan in full or enters into a satisfactory repayment arrangement with the ISSC, assignment of the loan to IRS may be cancelled.

Last year, the ISSC assigned 6,400 accounts which resulted in $1.3 million collected through the offset program. This year, the ISSC has assigned 32,380 defaulted student loans totaling $109,210,168 for offset.

The Department of Education is expecting to recoup millions of dollars through the program. "This is just another step in the government's effort to crack down on student loan defaulters," said ISSC's Bob Clement.

The 1986 state fiscal year (July 1985 to June 1986) was a record year for student loan collections in Illinois. The ISSC collected $14.3 million, an increase of 39 percent over the previous fiscal year.

"This increase indicates many of the defaulted borrowers want to repay their loan. While the percentage in default is low, borrowers who do default are given priority attention," Clement said.

"For those borrowers who have ignored the ISSC's collection efforts, the offset program will come as a surprise. Many borrowers who were off last year were shocked when they did not receive an anticipated refund even though they were warned of this action," said Art Bilski, ISSC's director of claims and collections. "I strongly urge any borrowers who feel they may be in default on their IGLP loan to call Pat Emerson in our default department today."

The ISSC's default department can be reached at 1-312-245-7040, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Schmalenberger vice chancellor

Larry A. Schmalenberger of Macouhah has been named vice chancellor for administrative services by the Belleville Area College Board of Trustees.

The board voted unanimously Wednesday night in favor of Schmalenberger. The college had conducted a nationwide search for the position and selected him over a field of 80 candidates.

Schmalenberger has served as interim vice chancellor since July following the retirement of James Hines. Schmalenberger previously served as the first president of BAC's Red Bud Campus, which opened in January 1985.

Schmalenberger, 47, has a bachelor's degree in business administration from Ohio State University and a master's degree in education from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

Schmalenberger has been at BAC since 1975 and also has served as dean of general studies, director of the Granite City Day Center (when it operated at Washington School) and interim dean of the business services division.

Gov. Thompson vetoes English proficiency bill

Gov. James Thompson on Monday vetoed legislation requiring college instructors to be proficient in English, saying such a measure would prohibit experts in their fields from sharing their knowledge with students in Illinois universities.

Thompson ripped into a bill passed by the legislature this spring requiring "oral proficiency in the English language" for classroom instructors at the state's public universities, calling it a "travesty to free speech and professionalism of our college personnel."

Legislators supporting the measure said they had received numerous complaints about students being unable to understand or communicate with their foreign-born professors.

The bill passed the Senate 45-9 and the House 88-24.

Thompson said the bill would allow only those who were "experts" or "highly skilled" in speaking English to teach and the requirements of this bill would sacrifice concepts and facts for clarity of punctuation and grammar.

"It would be detrimental to the students of Illinois to deprive them of the leading men and women in many fields due to their English speaking ability," the governor added.

Thompson gave examples through history of individuals he said he would have been barred from sharing their knowledge with students under the legislation.

They ranged from President James Madison, who suffered from a major speech impediment, and Revolutionary War generals Pulaski, von Steuben and Lafayette, who had limited English ability. He cited scientists Albert Einstein and Werner Von Braun, and foreign policy experts Henry Kissinger and Zbigniew Brzezinski, all of whose English was or is accented.

"In the arts, would Picasso, VanGogh or Monet have been allowed into the classroom? Would Henry Youngman and Victor Borge be allowed to lecture on humor?" Thompson also asked.

"In business, would our new friends from the Orient who are moving thousands of jobs into Illinois be allowed to lecture on management or economic development?"

Free vocational test to be given

Students at area high schools soon will have an opportunity to take an aptitude test that can help them plan their future.

The Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery (ASVAB), administered by the Department of Defense to help students measure their specific abilities, will be given free of charge.

The ASVAB is the result of more than 30 years of research to seek out the best ways of identifying individual aptitudes in vocational and technical fields. It provides guidance for the student trying to decide on the right vocation. ASVAB also measures a student's aptitude for academic subjects and, in addition, those choosing the armed services can use their test scores to qualify for placement in selected training schools.

Each year, more than a million students take the ASVAB. Some join one of the military services and take advantage of technical and specialized training and educational benefits offered to them. Others choose to go to college and many others enter civilian vocational technical schools or find full-time jobs.

SIUE employees get pay hike

CARBONDALE — Employees of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will receive raises averaging 6 percent under a budget approved by the university's board of trustees Sept. 11.

Meeting at the Carbondale campus, the board approved the fiscal 1987 budget, which includes the raises. Fiscal 1987 began July 1.

The budget includes $81 million for SIUE, $230.3 for SIUC and $1.7 million for the Office of the Chancellor.

The 1987 budget provides for 7.5 percent raises for SIUC faculty, with 1.5 percent of the amount coming from internal reallocations.

The board also approved budget requests for fiscal 1988 which would provide for raises of 12 to 16 percent for university employees. The proposed budget will be submitted to the Illinois Board of Higher Education for review.

Proposed salary increases over the years have been reduced by state officials after being submitted by the university.

Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit said salary increases are a top priority in the 1988 budget. He said it's "a little too early to tell" if SIU will receive funds requested.

Pettit called spending money on raises and improving programs and equipment a balancing act. "You can...but sooner or later the cost of doing that is facing urgencies in other areas, he said.

The budget increased by 4.3 percent since last year. For SIUE, it also includes a 4 percent increase for general costs and 7 percent increase for library costs.

The proposed fiscal 1988 budget seeks a 13.5 percent hike in operating funds. The amount is almost $27 million more than the year's budget.

SIU is seeking 4 percent more from the state to cover general price increases, 5 percent more for utilities and 12 percent more for libraries.

A new art and design facility for SIUE topped a list of capital budget requests for fiscal 1988. The university is requesting $4.75 million to build the facility, about 90 percent of which would be for studios.

The university is concerned about the soundness of buildings in the Wagner Complex, which currently houses studios and offices. The complex, at Brown and Wolf streets, is about a century old.

The university also is concerned about security at the off-campus complex. The total cost for a new building is estimated at $5.6 million.

Also requested for fiscal 1988 is almost $3.5 million to remodel music facilities at SIUE, which would include work at Lovejoy Library and the Communications Building.

The board approved continuing a master's program in philosophy at SIUE, despite a recommendation by the IBHE that it be terminated.

The program was reviewed after the university received a report from the IBHE saying it was no longer educationally and economically justified.

University officials cited an increase in enrollment and improvements in the program, such as addition of a women's studies specialization.

Berlin offers much to see

Berlin should be an excellent stop next year when the divided city celebrates its 750th anniversary.

But even without the probable birthday celebrations, the city has many sights and at least two magnificent collections worth viewing. One is the fine assortment of bears, elephants and other animals at the Steigenberger a first-class zoo.

The other collection is in a major square just off the Kurfürstendamm—that famed street of shops and sidewalk cafes—and includes an assortment of humanity that has an entertainment value rivaling the Steigenberger.

The plaza teems with activity, from the musicians performing with the hope that something will be placed in their hats on the pavement, to panhandlers with their hands out but offering nothing in return.

Teenagers with blue hair perform tricks on skateboards, roller skates and at least one Turk escapes the anonymity of being a laborer in a foreign land by walking around on his hands.

Germany's largest city also stays awake late at night, as evidenced by the number of strollers on the Kurfürstendamm well after midnight. Discoteques go on and on, including one in the high-rise Europa Center—a building that reminds the visitor of an American mall standing on end.

A nearby casino is more elegant than those at Atlantic City.

A quick overview of the city can be gained by taking a two-hour bus tour that passes the beautiful Charlottenburg palace, the rebuilt Reichstag, the burning of which gave Adolf Hitler an excuse to take over in the 1930s and the Soviet war memorial.

The tour also passes the spot where President John F. Kennedy stirred the Germans with his statement of support during the Berlin wall crisis in 1961.

East Berlin also is beautiful, particularly the new buildings near the Brandenburg Gate, an area hard hit by bombs in World War II. Like the west side, it has much open land and beautiful parks.

A subjective comparison of the two cities resulted in the conclusion that there are fewer people, more police and less laughter in

Kaiser Wilhelm Church

East Berlin. But the music you hear from the oompah bands there is not unlike that made by musicians on the other side of the Berlin wall.

Prices are lower in the east, especially for food. And a street-car ride there costs eight cents—considerably less than the 92-cent fares in the west.

Spy novels will never be the same after seeing the wall. The murky black and white scenes of prisoner exchanges in John Le Carré and Robert Ludlum novels vanishes forever, lost in the mundane red tape encountered when crossing the border.

When showing a passport, visitors are required to convert at least $10 into East German marks—$10 that they are not allowed to change back into dollars.

But perceptions of World War II are significantly different in East Germany. The Museum of German History makes it clear that Russia saved East Germany from capitalism and fascism and won the war with little or no help from the Allies.

Peace group needs help

Heidelberg's hopping

Move over, Harvard. Your 350th anniversary this year might be big news in the United States, but Heidelberg University is nearly twice that old.

The big attraction in Heidelberg this year is the celebration of the 600th anniversary of its famous university. Amidst the city's romantic charm, American visitors often forget that this is a university town.

The school was founded by Elector Ruprecht I of the Palatinate in 1386, more than a century before Columbus convinced Queen Isabella to finance his search for a shortcut to the Far East.

The university now has 28,000 students and nearly 10 percent of the town's 160,000 inhabitants earn their livelihood from activities associated with the institution.

Concerts, plays, exhibitions, lectures and more than 100 conferences and symposiums are scheduled for the year-long celebration. It will be an environment that Mark Twain would have loved. Twain, the American most identified with Heidelberg, spent the summer of 1878 warding off writer's block and describing the region's charm.

But he was not a fan of the language. Twain's hilarious essay on "The Awful German Language" is part of A Tramp Abroad.

His evaluation: "In early times some sufferer had to sit up with a toothache, and he put in the time inventing the German language."

But English-speaking travelers today need not worry. For more than a century Heidelberg has been at principal stop for Americans visiting Germany. The country also is the European headquarters of the U.S. Army. And with the Anglicization inherent in the studies of a prominent university, English is heard everywhere.

Window boxes and flower markets are backdrops for photo portraits. A majestic castle looms over the town.

The city's main street—now a pedestrian mall—contains fast food restaurants offering everything from shrimp hoagies to 18-inch sausages coiled on a mammoth bun. Many different beers are available at the Red Ox Tavern, famed hangout in The Student Prince. Next door to the historic Hotel Ritter is a McDonald's restaurant.

Hundreds of shops sell everything from trashy souvenirs to expensive leather coats.

Travelers visiting Europe this year, can get more information on a his and hers vacation to Germany through many area travel agents, the German National Tourist Office in New York or Lufthansa Airlines.

Lufthansa flies non-stop from Chicago to Frankfurt, with connections to St. Louis via Ozark, TWA or United.

TWA has a non-stop flight from St. Louis to Frankfurt, which offers easy access to Stuttgart and Heidelberg, and, if you like to drive, many charming places in between. That's the real way to see Germany, even if the rental car is not a Mercedes.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Perkins

Mr. and Mrs. Perkins anniversary honorees

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin A. (Rosemary Stuck) Perkins, 832 O'Fallon Road, Troy, formerly of 2201 Delmar Ave., celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary on Sept. 6. They were guests of honor at a dinner dance at the VFW Hall in Caseyville, hosted by their children and 24 grandchildren.

Mr. Perkins retired from Granite City Steel after 34 years of service. He was born in Villa Ridge, Mo., and his wife was a lifelong resident of Granite City. They moved to Troy 22 years ago.

There were about 300 relatives and friends attending the social event from this area and from Indiana, Missouri and Texas. During the evening, Linda Perkins, a daughter-in-law of the guests of honor, read a poem she wrote in honor of the couple. The couple's children and grandchildren are Theresa Perkins of Centralia, Mr. and Mrs. Greg Perkins, Stephen, Abby and Chad, of Collinsville, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Jackson, Brian, Nancy and Tanya, of Seminole, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. William Hudson, David, Scott, Stephanie and Angela, of Oakville, Mo., Mrs. Diana Loucks, Christine, Cynthia, Curtis, Craig and Cheryl, of Ozark, Ala., Mr. and Mrs. Donald Perkins, Jeanette and Gerald, of Balch Springs, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. John Perkins, Michael and Joseph, Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Perkins, Jennifer and Elizabeth, all of Troy, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Grady Timms and son, Brandon, of Mesquite, Texas. Unable to attend were Theresa, Gail and Diana.

Gabriel Shrine honors officers

The first meeting after the summer vacation of Gabriel Shrine 78 was held at the Masonic Temple honoring Donna Thomas, noble prophetess, and Henry Thomas, associate watchman-of-shepherds. As the couple was introduced, Lois Ann Bilbrey sang "I Believe" to the honorees. They were also presented with a Japanese fan decorated with a rainbow-colored silk flowers and a boutonniere made by Mary Ann DeHart.

Their daughters, Melissa Grizzard and Ronna Dally, made the presentation. The Thomases were then escorted to the East where they were guests for the evening.

Others escorted were 18 supreme appointees, three past worthy high priestesses, two past watchmen of shepherds, four worthy high priestesses and two watchmen of shepherds.

Advisers presented were: Christine Vaughn and Irene Little, both of Gaspar Shrine, Mildred Olson, Holy Grail Shrine, and Mary Ellen Lewis of Gabriel Shrine. Noble prophetesses escorted along with associate watchmen of shepherds were Judy Maloney, Mary Keef, Margie Ray, and Kenneth Olson, John Everson, Don Vaill, Walter Ray and Charles Keef.

A memorial service for Joyce Turner and Rose Halbert was given by Della Aulbaugh, worthy high priestess, who also appointed program officers: Betty Henry, Bernard Sandifer, Walter Ray, Kermit Patton, Beulah Patton, Albert Vandeels, Rose VanGels, Edna Brown and Lloyd Lewis.

The Thomases were presented with gifts from Gabriel Shrine and from Della Aulbaugh and John Williams.

Those serving on special committees were Mary Ann DeHart, Dorothy Watkins, Sue Williams, Peggy Gibbons, Della Aulbaugh, Mary Bilbrey, Ruth Novacek, Ronna Dally, Melissa Grizzard and Delores Vierling.

A social hour followed. The ables were decorated with a ceramic bear as an emblem. Crocheted baskets were filled with pastel colored silk flowers. Crystal vases of flowers also adorned the tables along with individual crocheted cups filled with candy mints and nuts.

BOY SCOUT TROOP 7 sponsored by St. Joseph Parish has reorganized and is active in new programs. Standing, Mike Gorrado Sr., assistant scoutmaster, plus Tim Knowland, Sonny Lemler, assistant scoutmaster, and Jeff Harley, Tim Bryan, Mike Durbin, Gary Gluka, Talvin Mann, Joey Boushard, Tom Boushard, assistant scoutmaster, and Mark Lottus, scoutmaster.

St. Joseph Boy Scout Troop gets reactivated

Boy Scout Troop 7 of St. Joseph Catholic Church has been reorganized under the leadership of Mark Lottus as scoutmaster. Participating in the activities and helping with the troop are three assistant scoutmasters: Mike Corrado Sr., Sonny Lemler and Tom Boushard.

As one of its first projects, the troop traveled to Perryville, Mo., for a campout in August and enjoyed fishing and swimming and took a six-mile hike.

The scouts also have held two car washes and a candy sale to earn money for the purchase of new tents and other camping equipment.

The troop members will also be attending the fall camporee at Camp Joy near Carlyle, Ill., this month, the scoutmaster said.

Scouts are held every Wednesday at 7 p.m. at St. Joseph Hall, 2101 State St., and are open to boys in the area.

Options offered on kitchen sinks

The homeowner remodeling a kitchen today has a wide choice of colorful and exciting kitchen sinks and accessories. These new models are designed to increase the practicality and elegance of the home's central workplace.

For those who want a rich, custom look, there's a new line of color-coordinated kitchen sinks and counter tops, says Charles E. Finch, president of the Plumbing Industry Council of St. Louis.

The specially designed, flush-fit enameled cast-iron sink blends smoothly into the tile counter top to create an even, one-piece surface that adds style and ease in kitchen care. The sink or counter top line is available in various styles and sizes.

One of the most popular new models expands the kitchen's food preparation and cleanup area considerably. The sink has three bowls: a large one for soaking and washing large pots and skillets; a small shallow compartment in the center for the garbage disposal and a third for rinsing.

A new double-bowl sink offers a solution for consumers who want the versatility of the three-bowl unit, but have limited kitchen space. It has a large compartment for washing and a smaller, shallow well for food preparation, garbage disposal and rinsing.

Most sinks can be ordered with a number of practical accessories, such as hardwood cutting boards, hot and cold water dispensers, custom designed drain boards and wire drain baskets and liquid soap or lotion dispensers, some cutting boards fit over the garbage disposal well to allow the residents to scrape food trimmings into it.

Others are designed to fit over the other compartments in the sink. The latest faucets are European-styled, with extra long spouts to cover the radius of multiple compartments.

Alta Stewart gives program to Methodist group

"Education for Women" was the topic of a program given by Alta Stewart at a meeting of the Nameoki United Methodist Women.

Those assisting with the presentation were Dorothy Wallace, Norma Riddin, Gail Watt, Dorothy Ashford and Gladys Russell as pianist.

President Helene Bischoff presided at the initial session of the season, held at the church. She led a discussion on the annual holiday bazaar and for Oct. 26. Tickets for the salad luncheon are available from members at a cost of $3 for adults and $1.50 for children four to 12 years of age.

The needs of Neighborhood House were discussed and it was noted the center needs paper products, toys, crayons, blankets, books and pots. These items can be brought to the church for distribution, the president said.

Others attending were Dorothy Luckert, Alma Concan, Corinne Dawson, Luan Briner, Phyllis Whitehead and Dorothy Sinnett. Gail Watt and Millie Cullen served as hostesses for the evening. Next month Rains and Russell will be the hostesses and Briner will be in charge of the program.

AARP welcomes 21 members

The American Association of Retired Persons Granite City Chapter 1340 enrolled 10 new members in July and August and 11 new members in September.

They are Alma Brown, Lillian Naeve, Ruth Bolt, Doris Milligan, William and Bernice Benton, Eva Six, Ann Backy, Roy McGee, Ellen Tritsch, Joseph and Isabel Bozil, Alice and John Mitchell, Frances Pask, Marcelle Norton, Mary Sobol, John Ritchie, Floyd and Mary Lassen, and Gilbert Kulenkamp.

The new members were introduced by Membership Chairman Clarence Hoffman.

A regular monthly meeting was presided over by President Juanita Cravley, with the invocation given by Chaplain Kathryn Edmonds. It was held at the Granite City Township Hall, 2004 Delmar Ave., with 22 members in attendance.

Secretary Cele Mance gave a report and Legislative Chairman Oscar Asik spoke on current legislation affecting senior citizens.

Bill Zinn gave a talk urging recipients and future recipients of Social Security to support HR 1917, authored by Edward H. Roybal and co-sponsored by Matthew J. Rinaldi, to end denial of full benefits to those born during the months between 1917 and 1921.

Statements were signed by members and will be forwarded to U.S. Rep. Melvin Price, U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon and U.S. Sen. Paul Simon.

Sunshine lady Gertrude Boskey reported sending 11 get well and seven sympathy cards.

Community Services Chairman Harry Fryntko gave a report on services available to seniors at the hospital.

Cravley announced that AARP sponsored a boat excursion on "The President" Sept. 18.

On Sept. 29 there will be an apple picking excursion to Eckert's Orchard in Belleville. Those interested may register her at 877-7099.

Blood pressure tests were given by four registered nurses from Washington University. They are working with Systolic Hypertension in Elderly Program (SHEP) to determine whether blood pressure medicine is beneficial to people age 60 and over who have systolic hypertension. It occurs when the top number of the blood pressure measurement is higher than 160 and when the lower number is less than 90. SHEP is a national multi-center clinical study being conducted by Washington University School of Medicine in cooperation with St. Louis University School of Medicine and the Veterans Administration.

Greek phyllo chicken a delight

- 1 cup whole almonds
- 3 cups chopped cooked chicken
- 1 pkg. (8 oz.) feta cheese, crumbled
- 1 cup sliced green onion
- 1/2 cup heavy cream
- 2 tsp. Dijon mustard
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1/2 tsp. basil
- 1 tsp. herb pepper seasoning or 1/2 tsp. lemon pepper
- 1 lb. phyllo dough
- 1/2 cup butter, melted

Spread almonds in shallow pan. Toast at 350° for 15 minutes, stirring once or twice. Cool. Coarsely chop almonds.

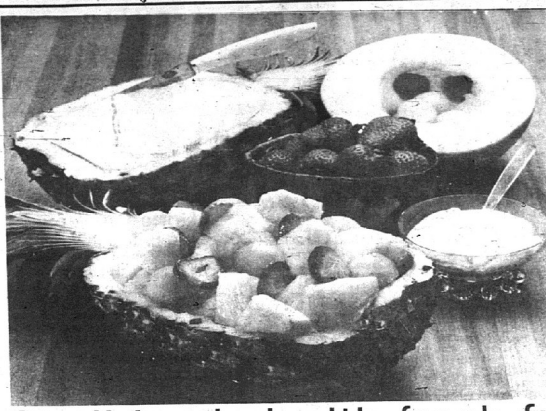

Combine almonds with chicken, feta cheese, green onions, heavy cream, mustard, garlic, basil and pepper seasoning.

Divide phyllo dough in half. Cover with plastic to keep from drying. Brush bottom of 9-by-13 inch pan with butter.

Layer pan with 1 sheet phyllo, folding excess edges down to fit pan. Brush with butter. Repeat, using half of phyllo. Spoon almond-chicken mixture over phyllo, brushing each sheet with butter and fitting edges into pan.

Bake at 375° for 30 minutes or until golden brown. Cool slightly before serving.

Makes 8 servings.

Shell loaded with fresh fruit

One of the best things about fruit for dessert is that it can be as simple as complicated or as convenient as desired. Late summer calls for simplicity, as in this juicy mix of pineapple, melon and fresh strawberries sprinkled with kirsch and crowned with cinnamon whipped cream.

Put this simple idea together to create a flavor balance of sweet, tart, smooth and juicy, plus a picture-perfect arrangement of nature's best—all in minutes.

When buying fresh pineapple, plan to use it as soon as possible. To cut it quickly, twist off the crown, cut fruit in half, then quarters. Trim off core. Remove fruit from shell and cut into bite-size pieces.

- 1 fresh pineapple
- 1 cup honeydew melon balls
- 1 cup sliced strawberries
- 1/2 cup kirsch
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 2 tsp. confectioner's sugar
- 1/2 tsp. cinnamon

Cut pineapple in half lengthwise through the crown, leaving shells intact. Remove, then core and dice fruit.

Arrange with melon balls and strawberries in shallow glass dish. Sprinkle with kirsch. Cover. Refrigerate 1 hour.

Spoon fruits back into shells. Beat whipping cream, sugar and cinnamon until soft peaks form. Serve with fruits.

Serves 4.

MIX fresh pineapple, available all year, with fruits of the season for an elegant dessert any time.

Seafood and red tomatoes

- 1 pkg. (6 oz.) frozen crabmeat and shrimp, thawed and well drained
- 1/2 cups (6 oz.) cubed cheddar cheese, coarsely chopped
- 3 tsp. sliced green onion
- 1/2 cup dairy sour cream
- 1/2 cup grated parmesan cheese
- 2 tsp. milk
- 2 tsp. snipped fresh parsley
- 1 tsp. fresh lemon juice
- 1 tsp. prepared mustard
- 1/2 tsp. pepper
- 6 large tomatoes
- Lettuce

In medium mixing bowl, combine crabmeat and shrimp, cheddar cheese, eggs and green onion. For dressing, in small mixing bowl combine sour cream, parmesan, milk, parsley, lemon juice, mustard and pepper.

Lightly toss dressing with seafood mixture. Cover and chill.

Place each tomato, stem-end down, on a cutting board. Cut each tomato into 5 or 6 vertical slices, cutting to, but not through, bottom of tomato.

Place each on individual lettuce-lined salad plate. Spoon about 1/2 cup seafood mixture into each tomato.

Makes 6 servings.

Garden pizza

- 1/2 cups flour
- 1/2 cup cornmeal
- 1 tsp. baking powder
- 1 tsp. salt, if desired
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup oil
- 1 (8 oz.) can pizza sauce
- 1 medium green pepper, cut into thin rings
- 1 medium onion, thinly sliced, separated into rings
- 1 medium zucchini, thinly sliced
- 2 cups (8 oz.) shredded mozzarella cheese
- 1 cup grated parmesan cheese

Grease 14-inch round or 15-by-10 inch pan.

Combine flour, cornmeal, baking powder, salt, milk and oil. Stir until mixture forms a ball.

Turn out onto prepared pan. Let stand 2 to 3 minutes. Press dough into pan. Shape edge to form rim.

Bake about 13 minutes at 425° or until edges are very light golden brown.

Spread pizza sauce over partially baked crust. Top with vegetables and cheeses.

Continue baking 15 to 20 minutes or until cheese is melted and edges are golden brown.

Makes 6 servings.

Plum ice cream

- 3 cups sliced fresh plums (about 1 1/2 lb.)
- 3 tsp. frozen orange juice concentrate
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 1 cup half-and-half
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 1/8 tsp. salt

In 2-quart saucepan combine plums, orange juice concentrate and sugar, varying sugar to taste according to tartness of plums. Bring to boil over medium heat. Reduce heat and simmer about 10 minutes or until plums are tender. Pour into blender. Blend smooth. Chill.

In large bowl, beat eggs. Stir in cream, half-and-half, vanilla, salt and chilled plum mixture.

Churn-freeze in hand-crank or electric ice cream maker, according to manufacturer's directions. Store in freezer. Soften slightly before serving.

Makes about 1/2 gallon.

Lighten up meals with fruit

It is easy to transform convenient foods into culinary delights that taste great and are nutritious, too. In fact, menus now offer more choices for light, healthy eating. Today's cooks are also looking for easy-to-prepare suggestions suitable for casual dining or more elegant entertaining.

One menu features Salmon-Dijon Vegetable Salad and Minted Pear Compote, perfect for an impromptu weekend gathering. Salmon-Dijon Vegetable Salad combines a selection of garden-fresh vegetables—summer squash, onions, mushrooms and Chinese pea pods—with canned salmon, marinated in a light Dijon vinaigrette dressing for an appealing main-dish salad.

A perfect finale to this light meal is Minted Pear Compote, a refreshing ensemble of canned pears, honeydew melon balls, fresh berries and mint. The delicate flavor and coloring of canned pears make them an ideal recipe ingredient.

Another menu, equally delicious and using similar ingredients, is designed for meals that demand quick-to-prepare foods. Salmonburgers top this menu with a tasty combination of flavorful Dijon dressing, canned salmon and green onions. Quickly assembled and pan-grilled, these salmonburgers offer a new approach to the ordinary fare of burgers. For flavor variety, they rely on bottled dressing for seasoning.

For a nutritious mealtime accompaniment, serve Marinated Pear Salad alongside the Salmonburgers. A bed of vibrant green spinach and other fresh vegetables serves as a base for this cooling salad, seasoned by a marinade of bottled Italian dressing. Juicy canned pears crown this salad to result in a fresh palate-pleaser.

Salmon-dijon

- 1 can (15½ oz.) or 2 cans (7½ oz. each) salmon
- 2 cups sugar snap peas or Chinese pea pods
- 1 small zucchini (1 inch diameter)
- 1 small yellow summer squash (1 inch diameter)
- 1 cup small mushrooms, quartered
- ¾ cup bottled calorie-reduced Dijon vinaigrette dressing
- 2 to 3 green onion tops cut in thin diagonal strips, if desired
- Lettuce leaves, if desired

Drain salmon. Break into chunks. Refrigerate.

String snap peas, if necessary. Blanch in boiling water about 15 seconds or until bright green. Cool in ice water immediately. Drain. Cut zucchini and squash in ½-inch slices. Blanch 15 seconds or until bright in color. Cool in ice water immediately. Drain.

Combine peas, squash and mushrooms. Pour dressing over vegetables. Marinate 30 minutes to 1 hour. Drain, reserving dressing.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Food with flair

- 2 cups honeydew melon balls
- 6 mint sprigs, cut into very thin strips
- 1 tsp. lime juice

Drain pears and halve. Reserve liquid. Combine pears, melon, mint, reserved pear liquid and lime juice. Pour over pears and melon. Marinate 30 minutes. Add berries just before serving. Garnish with mint sprigs. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Salmon burgers

- 1 can (15½ oz.) or 2 cans (7½ oz. each) salmon

- 2 tsp. chopped green onions
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/8 tsp. pepper
- 10 toasted hamburger buns

Bring back the campfires

No one can forget those tantalizing campfire confections, so delicious everyone asked for "s'more." Each treat was made by toasting a marshmallow to perfection before sandwiching with a chocolate bar between two graham crackers. Campers proclaimed it the ultimate in outdoor desserts.

In this high-tech age nothing is sacred. Now S'Mores—thankfully—can come hot and melty from the kitchen. Even the S'More has been modernized as it is surprisingly simple to make in a microwave oven.

Begin by placing the marshmallow on a chocolate bar-topped graham cracker and microwave a few seconds to heat and puff the marshmallow. Top with another graham cracker, then enjoy.

Cereal squares

- ½ cup light corn syrup
- 3 (1.65 oz.) milk chocolate bars
- ½ tsp. vanilla
- ¾ cups honey graham cereal
- 1 cup miniature marshmallows

Butter 8-inch square pan. Heat corn syrup in 3-quart saucepan to boiling or place corn syrup in a large micro-proof bowl and microwave on high 1 minute or to boiling.

Remove from heat or microwave oven. Stir in chocolate, broken in pieces, and vanilla until chocolate is melted.

Gradually fold in cereal until coated with chocolate. Fold in marshmallows.

Press into pan. Refrigerate until firm. Cut into bars.

Refrigerate leftovers to stay crisp.

Makes 24 bars.

Cookie bars

- ½ cup butter or margarine
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- ½ cup flour
- ½ cup graham cracker crumbs
- 1 tsp. baking powder
- ½ tsp. salt
- 4 (1.65 oz.) milk chocolate bars
- 1 cup marshmallow creme

Cream butter or margarine and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in egg and vanilla. Combine flour, graham cracker crumbs, baking powder and salt. Add to creamed mixture. Spread half the dough in bottom of greased 8-inch square baking pan. Arrange candy bars over dough, breaking as needed to fit.

Spread with marshmallow creme. Scatter bits of remaining dough over marshmallow. Carefully spread to form a layer. Bake at 350° for 30 to 35 minutes or until done. Cool in pans. Cut into squares. Makes 16 bars.

Surimi seafood proves itself no fake for versatility, flavor

Surimi seafood is compatible with late summer vegetables and fruit in sensational salads. Surimi seafood is a restructured fish product that has been flavored, textured and shaped to resemble shellfish.

Although surimi looks and tastes like crab, shrimp, scallops or lobster, it is made from abundant and economical white deep ocean fish such as Alaska pollock. It is convenient, nutritious and inexpensive compared to the shellfish it imitates.

Versatile surimi seafood complements fresh tropical fruit, highlights pasta and vegetables and crowns a composed salad.

mi is fully cooked and only requires thawing to be ready to eat. Now widely available, it is found either in the supermarket freezer case with other fish products, in the fresh seafood case in the deli department, or as part of the produce department's salad bar.

Because surimi is made primarily from deep ocean whitefish, the product is especially low in fat and cholesterol.

Pair it with produce for light, refreshing salads. Popular shapes for salads are flake and chunk. Salad style, a blend of the flake and chunk, closely resembles picked crabmeat. Shrimp, scallop and lobster look-alikes are also attractive in salads.

Cobb salad

- 6 to 12 oz. surimi seafood, crab flavored, chunk style
- 1 avocado, diced
- 4 tsp. lemon juice
- 6 to 8 oz. minced salad greens
- 2 tomatoes, diced
- 2 hard cooked eggs, chopped
- 1 small cucumber, peeled and diced
- 4 tsp. coarsely crumbled blue cheese

Creamy Dressing
Toss surimi seafood with 2 teaspoons lemon juice. Gently toss avocado with remaining juice. Arrange salad greens in large, shallow serving bowl or on individual serving plates. Arrange rows of tomato, egg, avocado, seafood, cucumber and blue cheese over greens. Pass Creamy

Dressing.
Yields: 4 main-dish servings. Recipe can be halved, doubled or tripled.

Creamy Dressing: Combine $\frac{3}{4}$ cup dairy sour cream, 1 tablespoon white wine vinegar, 1 teaspoon Dijon mustard, $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon sugar and a dash bottled pepper sauce. Mix well. Chill until served. Yields $\frac{3}{4}$ cup.

Note: Other surimi seafood—such as lobster, shrimp or scallop-flavored—can be substituted. Other compatible ingredients include marinated artichoke hearts, sliced pimiento-stuffed olives, sliced radishes, crumbled bacon and alfalfa sprouts.

Tropical salad

- 1 large pineapple
- 12 to 16 oz. surimi seafood, crab flavored, leg, flake or chunk (if using leg-style, cut diagonally into thirds)
- 1 large mango, peeled and cubed, or 2 sliced nectarines
- 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ cups honeydew melon balls or cubes
- 1 cup seedless grapes
- 1 to 2 kiwifruit, peeled and sliced

Ginger-Orange Dressing
Cut pineapple in quarters lengthwise, cutting through crown. Remove fruit from shells. Reserve shells. Cut pineapple into chunks. Discard core.

In large bowl, gently combine surimi seafood, pineapple, mango, melon and grapes. Add kiwifruit just before serving.

Place pineapple shells on individual plates. Spoon seafood-fruit mixture into shells. Cover and chill until served. Pass Ginger-Orange Dressing to spoon over seafoods. Yields 4 servings.

Ginger-Orange Dressing: Combine $\frac{3}{4}$ cup mayonnaise, 3 tablespoons orange juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon grated orange peel, 1 teaspoon grated fresh ginger and a dash white pepper. Cover and chill until

To reduce calories, use unflavored, low-fat yogurt for the mayonnaise. Reduce orange juice to 2 tablespoons and omit lemon juice. Add $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon sugar. Dressing will be thin.

Yields about 1 cup.

Pasta salad

- 1 lb. surimi seafood, crab flavored, chunk style
- 8 oz. rotelle or shell pasta, uncooked
- 2 tomatoes, cubed
- 2 small zucchini, halved horizontally and thinly sliced
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cups frozen peas, thawed
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup minced parsley
- 3 tbsp. minced chives or green onions
- 3 tbsp. minced fresh basil or 2 tsp. dried basil
- 6 tsp. olive oil
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup vinegar
- $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. paprika
- Salt and freshly ground pepper

Cook, drain and cool pasta. In large bowl, combine surimi seafood, pasta, tomatoes, zucchini, peas, parsley, chives and basil.

In small jar with tight-fitting lid, combine olive oil, vinegar, paprika, $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt and $\frac{1}{8}$ teaspoon pepper. Shake until well blended and slightly thickened.

Pour over pasta mixture and combine thoroughly. Taste and correct seasonings. Serve chilled or at room temperature.

HARRY HAMM

Alexandra Pigg and Margi Clarke, who are friends outside the film world, star as best of friends in 'Letter to Brezhnev.'

Letter to Brezhnev

Somewhere along the line, Hollywood went wrong. Most films cost between $15 and $25 million to produce. One gets the feeling that it is written on a sacred stone that a movie must cost millions before it has a chance to be considered worthwhile.

Then along comes a film like 'Letter to Brezhnev.'

'Letter to Brezhnev' was made on a budget of far less than $1 million. It was done by people who, based on their previous credits, would be considered rank amateurs in Hollywood.

'Letter to Brezhnev' even smacks of being a family affair because it was written by Frank Clarke for his sister Margi, who stars in the film along with her best friend, Alexandra Pigg.

The entire shooting schedule lasted a scant three weeks. The only recognizable celebrity is Peter Firth, who appears in the film because he is a friend of Clarke's.

Despite all these non-impressive circumstances, 'Letter to Brezhnev' is a charming, humorous film of great value. It is the story of two girls — the best of friends — who are trapped on a treadmill in Liverpool. One has a swell job stuffing chicken innards back into processed chickens. The other girl can't find a job at all and collects unemployment compensation while living at home with her parents.

One night their frustration level is so high they decide to blow what meager funds they have on a night out. They even hire a taxi, which is a luxury they usually forego.

While searching for male companionship, they meet two Russian sailors on shore leave. This begins an adventure that is different for both girls and gives one of them a chance to change her entire life by taking a gamble for love. It isn't an ordinary relationship gamble. This is a leave-everything-behind gamble for the promise of something better.

And it is portrayed with such stark, straight forward realism that it makes 'Letter to Brezhnev' one of the most refreshingly frank films in years.

'Letter to Brezhnev' now is in an exclusive engagement at AMC's Galleria theater. I recommend it highly for avid film buffs who love movies made with a non-Hollywood perspective. Despite its sometimes coarse material, 'Letter to Brezhnev' is a breath of fresh, creative air.

Born American

Action adventure films are a dime a dozen. A new issue called 'Born American' could significantly lower that price.

It begins as the story of three American guys in Helsinki, Finland. As a lark, they decide to go to Lapland. Once there, the trio decides to cross the border into the Soviet Union. Now isn't that a fun idea.

Once in the USSR, the boys get accused of raping a village girl. Of course, they're innocent. In this film, the culprit is the local Orthodox priest.

But the Red Army thinks they are guilty and before you can say, 'Hi, comrade,' the boys have destroyed an entire Russian village and killed at least a dozen Russian soldiers.

Eventually the boys are captured and thrown into a Russian jail. The balance of 'Born American' is a grimy, graphic torture epic replete with lots of carnage and little in the way of real entertainment value.

Mike Norris struggles to restrain his friend, Steve Durham, after the two are thrown into a Russian prison in the film 'Born American.'

Air show

Confederates rise again

The World War II Fighter Air Show will be on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 27 and 28 at the Confederate Air Force Hangar at Smartt Field in St. Charles County.

The gates open at 10 a.m. with air shows each afternoon. Admission is $2 per person and parking is $3 per car. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

The dance will be held in the hangar from 8 until midnight on Saturday night, with the Big Band sounds of Gary Dammer. Admission is $8 per person, $15 per couple.

The Confederate Air Force is an organization dedicated to the restoration and preservation of World War II airplanes.

The Missouri Wing, established in July, 1980, has more than 300 members in three squadrons: the Heart of America Squadron in Kansas City, the Bootheel Squadron in Cape Girardeau, and Wing Headquarters in St. Charles. The Missouri Wing has 10 World War II airplanes, including a fully restored B-25.

Directions to the field are as follows: take Hwy. 94 north through St. Charles, continue to Grafton Ferry Road and turn left. Smartt Field is one mile on the right.

MOVIE CAPSULES By Harry Hamm

The Fly

The film has scenes that almost defy description. While scientifically correct, they represent some of the most graphic horror to ever churn the collective stomach of an audience. If you can stand it, The Fly will show you a real science fiction horror story. (★ ★ ★)

Shanghai Surprise

The film is set in Shanghai in 1938. Madonna portrays a con artist amidst the low life of Shanghai. Sean Penn is a prominent member of that low life. The plot has elements of an old-fashioned thriller from the 1940s, but Madonna and Penn give pretentious, childish performances. (★ ★)

Armed and Dangerous

John Candy has made his worst film ever, a story about a cop who is forced to become a security guard after being kicked off the police force when he is framed by bad cops. The film is called Armed and Dangerous and I thought it was dull and dimwitted. (★)

Touch and Go

Michael Keaton gets serious in his new film, Touch and Go, a movie about a pro hockey player from Chicago who becomes emotionally involved with an unwed mother and her 11-year-old son. (★ ★ ★)

Nothing In Common

In many respects, this is Tom Hanks' best film. But he and Jackie Gleason are not convincing as father and son. (★ ★ ★)

Stand By Me

Watching the four "heroes" of Stand By Me is immensely enjoyable... it is the adventure every adult male wishes he could turn the clock back to relive. Stand By Me could well turn out to be (Rob Reiner's) very best work. (★ ★ ★ ★)

Aliens

Sigourney Weaver returns as Warrant Officer Ripley. She was good in the first film, Alien. She's terrific in the sequel. Special effects are realistic and frightening. (★ ★ ★ ★)

Heartburn

Jack Nicholson and Meryl Streep work smoothly together. Their relationship looks real, although Nicholson never convinced me he was a writer of anything except post cards. Streep is, by far, the best of the two principal performers.

Heartburn is an entertaining, honest and compelling explanation of the divorce rate. You may not like the ending, but I bet you like the movie. (★ ★ ★ ★)

'Beverly Hills' comedy heads list

The blockbuster black comedy, Down and Out in Beverly Hills (1986), is set to hit the video stores next week from Touchstone Home Video.

Nick Nolte stars as a Beverly Hills street bum who moves in with a local family, headed by Richard Dreyfuss, a stress-filled clothes hanger magnate. In the film, Dreyfuss rescues Nolte from a near-suicide drowning in their pool.

Bette Midler plays Dreyfuss' zany and neurotic wife and their two children are equally strange. Little Richard is great as their neighbor and then there's the seductive maid and a dog who is seeing a shrink.

Nolte's laid back manner begins having a salutary, as well as humorous effect on everyone's life, as he teaches them that money isn't everything. Director, producer and co-writer Paul Mazursky (Moscow on the Hudson 1984) has put together a winning cast and telling tale, with plenty of satire. Rated R (language, sexual situations, nudity). Color. 103 min. VHS/Beta.

Joanne Woodward carries off an unusual portrayal in The Stripper (1983), out this week from Key Video. In this melodramatic adaptation of William Inge's play A Loss of Roses, Woodward plays an aging dancer who becomes involved with a younger man (Richard Beymer) and his domineering mother (Claire Trevor).

Oscar-winning director Franklin Schaffner (Patton 1970) made his film debut with this movie, and you can sense his stage background and potential. The talented cast of Carol Lynley, Gypsy Rose Lee, Louis Nye and Michael J. Pollard, as well as the throbbing Jerry Goldsmith score, enhance the sordid plot. Not rated, but should be PG for subject matter. Black and white. 95 min. VHS/Beta HiFi.

Kris Kristofferson, Keith Carradine and Lori Singer become part of a dangerous love triangle in Trouble in Mind (1986), the romantic drama recently released by Charter Entertainment.

Hawk (Kristofferson), an ex-convict cop who didn't kill by the rules, is out of prison. He heads for a big city in the Northwest and his former lover (Genevieve Bujold). Coop (Carradine) and Georgia (Singer) are a run-down couple who live nearby, and outside the law.

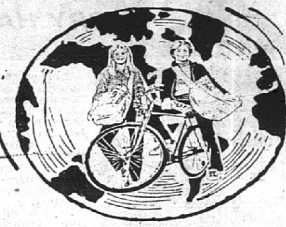

Hawk and Georgia are drawn together, while Coop falls deeper into trouble with the local mob. An exciting (if off-the-wall) story where director-writer Alan Rudolph (Choose Me 1984) expertly combines action, romance and comedy. Rated R (language, violence). Color. 111 min. VHS/Beta HiFi Stereo.

Also out this week is a teen-age action movie, Raid (1986), from Embassy Home Entertainment. It stars Bill Allen and gymnast Bart Conner in their film debuts. Veterans Ray Walston and Jack Weston are added for comic relief.

Allen plays Cru Jones, the best BMX bicycle rider in his town. The world's champion BMX biker (Conner) arrives to race Hell Track, billed as the most grueling bike race ever.

Cru wants to take the champ on, but between his mom (Talia Shire) and the champ's sleazy promoter (Weston), it's uphill all the way.

Industry finds room for avionics grads

Parks College offers unique course

By Bill Milligan

CAHOOKIA — Avionics. Not everyone knows what it is. Parks College is offering one of two degrees in avionics available in the United States. The other is offered at Ohio University, in Athens, Ohio.

Avionics is the study of electrical engineering as it applies to the aircraft industry.

It isn't an easy pursuit. To earn a bachelor's degree in avionics at Parks College, students must complete 139 semester hours in courses like avionics systems analysis, engineering mechanics, fundamental and digital circuitry, aerodynamics and radar.

It isn't as hard as it used to be. The school offered the curriculum over eight semesters when it began.

at Parks College in March 1985. Since that time, school officials have added an additional semester to the program. Students now may complete the program in nine semesters. They pay $2,175 per semester.

"Only the real strong ones were making it in eight semesters," said Paul Kneese, avionics coordinator for the school.

"Every time one of them would stub their toe, they bought another quarter. We decided to go ahead and make it a nine semester offering," he said.

Students average 16 hours per semester in the department. Why would anyone submit to the discipline?

Last year, the aeronautics industry had demand for 500 avionics graduates.

Since the program began at Parks, it has graduated 31 students from the program. They began at salaries ranging from between $18,000 and $29,000.

Kneese said the low end of the scale represented those students who went into the Air Force after graduation. The program began after the college, a branch campus of St. Louis University, received a $1.2 million donation from McDonnell Douglas for the construction and operation of the avionics program.

Despite their beginnings, Kneese said he urges his students not to feel tied down to the St. Louis area job market.

"We don't think it would be good to simply turn out graduates for McDonnell Douglas," Kneese said. "They wouldn't want that either. Some of our graduates go to work for McDonnell Douglas."

Other companies interested in Parks College grads include General Dynamics, Singer Link, Sikorsky Helicopter, United Airlines and E-Systems of Greenville, Texas, Kneese said.

Kneese said it isn't hard to convince his students to look outside the St. Louis area for jobs. For many of them, home is very far removed from St. Louis.

There are 100 students enrolled in the program, Kneese said a significant proportion of them are from foreign countries including Malaysia, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, Nigeria, Iberia and Panama.

Avionics students learn not only electronic circuitry, but also how to fabricate electronic circuit boards, the fundamentals of sophisticated radio communications equipment, digital systems analysis, computers and physics.

"All our courses have labs," Kneese said. "We try and give the students 'hands-on' experience."

That experience doesn't come only from the textbook.

Each of the department's nine labs is equipped with $60,000 to $80,000 worth of sophisticated electronics gear.

"We figure when they get out of school, people will think they're electronics whizzes and give them equipment to repair," Kneese said. "We try and prepare them for that, too."

Upperclassmen frequently are assigned to fix or assemble new or used pieces of equipment. One group is assembling a radar test panel donated to the school by Bendix Corp.

Students are taught to use and repair older equipment as well.

The training qualifies avionics graduates for a variety of jobs, not just avionics, Kneese said. One of his former students is a pilot. He said others are mechanics, some enter electronics fields, he said. Kneese said that because the program is so new, none of his graduates have worked into upper management of the aeronautics industry yet. Nevertheless, avionics graduates can be found in virtually all phases of the industry.

"The person getting on a plane at the airport wouldn't notice a Parks graduate's work, but they are there," Kneese said.

Kneese is a 1961 graduate of the college. He was in the Air Force as a test pilot for 22 years. During that time, he flew more than 30 different aircraft.

There have been some improvements at the school since he left. Today, 68 women are attending the college.

"This was traditionally a boys school," Kneese said. "They let girls in during the mid-60's. They're sharp."

Workshop on compensation law in state

Are you an employer or employee who is confused about the workers' compensation law in Illinois? This is not surprising, since its inception in 1911 hundreds of changes have been made. In the past three years alone there have been 20 changes to the law.

The Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA), Illinois Industrial Commission and Illinois Small Business Development Centers are sponsoring workshops in an effort to inform individuals and companies affected by the ever-changing law.

Four one-day programs throughout the state will explain the operation of the Workers' Compensation Act in Illinois. Included will be a workshop from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 30, at the SIUE Conference Center.

"Current workers' compensation laws will be explained so that employers and employees will be able to better communicate, avoid workplace injuries and deal with compensation problems that may occur in the workplace," said Jay R. Hedges, DCCA director. "Experts will present information on such topics as what constitutes an accident, benefits for all types of accidents and, most importantly, the prevention of accidents."

"Workers' compensation laws are not static; they continue to evolve from year to year, making it confusing for both the employer and employee to keep abreast of the latest changes," said Thomas D. Nyhan of Pope, Ballard, Shepard and Fowle Ltd., a Chicago law firm that specializes in workers' compensation litigation.

Nyhan will be one of three who will discuss workers' compensation laws in Illinois at the annual workers' compensation workshop. Warren E. Eagle of Katz, Friedman, Schur and Eagle, will present the employee position and Marlene Binder of the Illinois Industrial Commission will discuss regulatory issues.

The registration fee of $25 includes lunch and workshop materials. For further information, the Small Business Hotline, 1-800-232-2403, can be called.

Qualifies for list

Michele B. Gushfield of Madison was among 24 students to qualify for the summer deans' list at SIUE.

Retiring dean guided dental school to permanent status

When Herb Butts moved into the dean's office at the SIUE School of Dental Medicine in Alton, he wasn't sure there would be a dean's office the next year or even the next month.

Back in the late summer of 1981, there was talk of closing the SIUE facility because the state was producing too many dentists.

There was also talk of saving the cost of new buildings that had to be added if the school was to continue meeting accreditation requirements.

Nobody talks that way anymore, not since the would-be Tennessee gardener stepped into the turmoil and stayed long enough to plant the new dental school firmly in Alton soil.

"We made a significant change," Butts said on his last day recently in the second-floor office overlooking the serene College Avenue campus. The street, the brick arches of the new $5 million clinic are taking shape for a scheduled opening next year.

A blend in style for the clinic was an "absolute must," said Butts, 62, who has an antiquer's appreciation for the cluster of historical arched stone and brick built to educate ministers a century ago.

"We went back with the designer three times to preserve the integrity and antiquity of the campus. We lost a few good hickory trees, I'll admit that, and the baseball field, but nothing else," he said. "The wishing well had to stay."

Butts sees the brick and mortar as proof the dental school will continue long after he moves back to his Memphis home and semi-retirement as a troubleshooter for the dean of the University of Tennessee dental school a few blocks down the street.

"Every dean needs one, so someone who understands what's going on and can handle the paperwork to take the load off," he said. "The job will be similar to the one he's leaving in Alton except he won't have to worry about students anymore, he said — only the accreditation visits."

Butts passed an Illinois accreditation visit in the first few months at Alton. That came right after a traumatic state hearing to discontinue the dental school, he said.

"I still have the file of letters from all those ordinary people who spoke for us. It was quite an outpouring of support and it came from everywhere," Butts remembered. "Two weeks later, The Board of Higher Education had a similar hearing in Chicago and nobody came except the officials, he said."

Butts remembers vividly the rave review Alton got. "You should have been there," one board member told another. "I never saw such a display. They really came out in support of that school at that time."

After a promise to cut enrollment by 10 percent eased the board into a decision to keep the school open, Drake Tire put up a sign on its Broadway business proclaiming "The Dental School stays — Thank you, Tooth fairy."

Butts still has the photo, along with other mementos of his short tenure in Alton, and still thanks the people who stood up for the school that day.

"It was not any secret. When the economy started going down, dental practice started dropping. Whether it was the economy or fluoride in the water or education of the people, the caries (decay) rate decreased and dentist productivity increased, resulting in some dropoff in what dentists call business."

"Nobody's complaining about not being busy now and we have no problem placing grads. It's always been considered to be the mission of the school to place practicing dentists in southern and central Illinois."

Butts survived the next round — budget cuts that hurt but didn't destroy — and stayed to see the funding of the new clinic.

"That was a plum, and it came through (State Rep.) Jim McPike," Butts said.

Butts made a point of mending fences with the state dental society, which has sent guests to campus and speakers to recent commencements. He's also renewed old friendships on behalf of the school in the American Dental Association, where he was an editor.

"I think we've made the point about the school being stabilized and I feel good about that," he said. "There is something satisfying about knowing there is a permanent cure here."

Butts expects a formal, national search to find a permanent replacement for him within a year. "I'm someone who is an able administrator with good contacts."

Bondholders get extension

By Bonita L. Gower

Staff writer

ST. LOUIS — Bondholders for the Martin Luther King Jr. Bridge have been given an extension to respond to an offer to purchase their bonds.

The deadline, originally set for Sept. 15, was extended to Sept. 30. The not-for-profit Dr. Martin Luther King Bridge Improvement Corp. voted to allow the extension because it had been notified that some bondholders had not gotten their offers in time to meet the Sept. 15 date.

Ron Thompson, chairman of the St. Louis-Mississippi River Bridges Panel which also makes up the improvement corporation, said he is confident the remaining bonds will be in by that time.

The corporation also was told that some bondholders had their bonds in the mail but they would not arrive in time. "Some of the bondholders have summer residences in one place in the country and live in another place," he said. "They may not have even been home when the offer arrived."

Since the noon Sept. 15 deadline, the corporation has received more than $1 million in bids. About $4 million in bonds — of the $7.25 million total — have been received, Thompson said.

"We're past the 50 percent cliff mark now. We're moving forward and I'm still extremely optimistic," he said. "I think the extra 15 days will be very important."

It seems that most of the bondholders are satisfied with the offer, Thompson said, and his philosophy is: "Something is better than nothing."

However, he said that two bon-holders — William Mann of Virginia and Donald Wheeler of New Jersey — have expressed their dissatisfaction with the offer of 31 cents on the dollar to retire the bonds' ($4 million to retire a $10.7 million). The corporation has not received Mann's and Wheeler's bonds yet.

The corporation has filed a petition in the Circuit Court of St. Louis to review the offer, deem it fair and limit the rights of bondholders to collect on the amount proposed.

If approved, the proposal would force any opponents of the offer to accept the reduced offer as long as the majority of bondholders sold out, Thompson said.

A hearing on that petition will be held Oct. 30 in St. Louis.

Once its debt is retired, the King Bridge is to be taken over and maintained by the two states.

Cardinals (0-3) vs. Dallas (2-1)

Kickoff: 8 p.m. Monday night at Busch Stadium

By Greg Marecek

Journal Correspondent

CARDINALS OFFENSE: Mistakes are made by losers and that's what this group has been, though the effort is improved. The mistakes are more mental than physical. Penalties on big plays are killing the Big Red.

Now without Roy Green and Pat Tilley at wide receiver, and Stump Mitchell gimpy along with

O.J. Anderson, the weapons supply in the Cardinal arsenal is at a new low.

CARDINALS DEFENSE: The defense cannot be faulted for any of the three defeats. They held the L.A. Rams to 16 points and the explosive Buffalo Bills to 17 points — both should have been good enough to win.

If the defense can hang in there long enough, it might pay off with some wins. DALLAS OFFENSE: It's been better than expected considering the injuries they've suffered. Thirty-five points against Atlanta is impressive. Of course look for the tandem backs Tony Dorsett and Herschel Walker who get better and better.

DALLAS DEFENSE: After two good games they struggled against the Falcons. Pass defense is just average, and as usual, the Cowboys play the run very tough. PREDICTION: A year ago the Cardinals upset Dallas, 24-10, in this Monday Night special in maybe the Big Red's best performance of the season.

Despite all the problems, St. Louis rose from the ashes to play Dallas. Dallas didn't expect to lose to Atlanta at home, and they'll be wary of the Cardinals remembering last season's loss.

Based on tradition and the fact there could be no better game to get started with, I like the home team for the first time. Expect a nail-biter. TAKE THE CARDINALS AND GET SIX POINTS FROM DALLAS.

MARECEK'S RECORD: BIG RED VS. SPREAD: 3 WINS, 0 LOSSES.

Deregulation means more airport traffic

Congestion is continuing to increase at Lambert Field—the sixth busiest air carrier airport in the United States—and at other major airports throughout the country, officials say.

In the first six months of 1986, the number of near misses across the nation increased slightly to 575. About 30 percent involved commercial airliners.

Two near misses were reported at Lambert this year, and one was reported at Spirit of St. Louis Airport in Chesterfield, which is controlled by Lambert personnel, said Bill Buck, an Federal Aviation Administration official at Lambert.

A near miss is recorded when a pilot reports that two or more aircraft were flying too close. Buck said, adding that the FAA is required to investigate all such reports. Air traffic controllers are governed by a guideline calling for a minimum of 500 feet of vertical separation between aircraft, he said.

Jim Walters, an Ozark pilot and local spokesman for the Airline Pilots Association, said deregulation has had a major impact on the way airlines operate and therefore the use of airports.

With increased competition airlines went to what is known in the industry as a hub and spoke system, he said. In this system, major airports such as St. Louis, Chicago, Dallas and Atlanta serve as hubs, meaning flights are routed through the cities and connecting flights are made. The result is an economically sound operation for airlines but congestion at larger airports.

"Too much competition breeds problems, and one of those problems is too much reliance on the hub and spoke system," Walters said.

Walters said he believes some regulation would be beneficial. Another member of the pilots association—Ozark pilot Don Jacobs—said Lambert is close to capacity in terms of the number of operations it can handle safely.

"The physical constraints of the airport will not allow Lambert to handle any more traffic than it is now," Jacobs said.

In 1985, 428,000 flight operations were conducted at the airport.

Further, Jacobs said he believes expansion will allow capacity to increase only slightly. "Unless they're willing to tear down McDonnell Douglas or make highway 70 another runway, Lambert is not going to handle any more traffic than it is today," Jacobs said.

Too frequently discussions about congested airports focus on the number and ability of air traffic controllers, when the major issue really is an airport's size, he said.

"They could put a hundred controllers over in the tower (at Lambert) and they could not handle any more traffic," he said.

Part of the problem is that about 75 percent of operations at major airports are condensed into three to four prime travel hours daily, he said. In addition, the last major airport built in the United States was in Dallas-Fort Worth in the mid-1970s, Jacobs said.

"If traffic is going to continue to grow, we are going to have to have more runways in this country," he said.

Lambert Airport gets high safety mark

An air disaster such as one that occurred recently when an Aeromexico DC-9 and a small Piper aircraft collided in the skies over Carrizito, Calif., is less likely to happen in the St. Louis area, says a local spokesman for the Airline Pilots Association.

Jim Walters, an Ozark pilot and central air safety chairman for the association, said conditions are better at Lambert-St. Louis International Airport than in southern California.

In the accident in Carrizito, which occurred 20 miles southeast of Los Angeles International Airport, all 67 passengers and crew members on the two planes were killed. Nearly two dozen people on the ground also were killed when the plane crashed in a residential area.

The volume of general aviation aircraft is much lower at Lambert and the geography is better, Walters said. Not having to deal with mountains and an ocean—such as in Los Angeles—makes flight procedures simpler and safer, he said.

A good system of relief airports in the area to handle general aviation aircraft largely used for pleasure and business also takes a load off of Lambert, Walters said.

"Overall, the airport gets high marks," he said. "They do a remarkably good job."

Improvements could come in the area of ground markings, Walters said. New technology such as highly reflective paint to mark runways more clearly should be employed, he said, adding that the pilots association has been working with airport and local officials to upgrade the markings.

The ground markings are important because the two major runways at Lambert are parallel and therefore require planes sometimes to cross a runway from which planes are landing or taking off, Walters said.

Most newer airports are designed with the terminal located between the runways so that planes do not have to taxi across a runway. The major runways at Lambert are 1,200 feet apart.

"Overall, Lambert is very safe," he said. Bill Buck, the FAA's assistant manager for plans and procedures at Lambert, agrees.

"In my opinion it's one of the safest (airports) in the country," he said.

Buck attributes the safe conditions at Lambert to the competence of pilots and a staff of 73 operating personnel, including controllers, supervisors and air traffic assistants. About 1,170 flights are handled daily, with each controller normally handling between one to 10 flights at once, he said.

Interstates add business logos

SPRINGFIELD—A new signing program for Interstate highways will guide travelers not just to food, gas, lodging and camping but to McDonald's, Shell stations, Holiday Inn and KOA's.

Under the new program, providers of goods and services to the motoring public may have their company logotype displayed on signboards which are part of the highway system in advance of exits and along exit ramps.

Illinois Department of Transportation officials emphasized that the program is not just for big chains with well-recognized logos. Motorists might be directed to "Ma and Pa's Home Cookin'" as long as the establishment has met eligibility requirements.

The signs will contain only the logo and no additional advertising.

The first of the signs will go up in late September in Pontiac, Mr. Vernon and Kankakee, according to Illinois Secretary of Transportation Harry R. Hanley.

"Most of us have preferences about the kinds of places we like to eat and stay, and have an idea of the amount of money we want to spend," Hanley said. "These logos will give travelers the opportunity to make a choice without having to leave the highway to learn what's available."

Signs will be erected at seven interchanges this month during the first phase of the program. The next phase will begin in March 1987.

Routes to be included in the first year of the program are Interstate 24 from the Kentucky state line to Interstate 57; 57 from the Missouri state line to Interstate 80; and 80 from the Iowa state line to 57 and Interstate 39 from Rockford to LaSalle-Peru.

Ultimately, the three-year construction program will cost nearly $4 million which the state expects to recover by charging annual rental fees or about $260 from those businesses displaying logos.

To initiate the plan, 1 DOT contacted almost 1,000 businesses which might be eligible and interested. More than 300 applications to place logo signs were received and almost 90 percent of them qualified.

To be eligible, restaurants, gasoline stations and motels must be within a radius of three miles of an interchange in rural areas or one mile in urban areas—and be among the closest four businesses (six in the case of gas) to apply in each of three sign categories—gas, food and lodging.

Campgrounds must be within five miles of an interchange in urbanized areas and 10 miles of the interchange in rural areas.

Other criteria include hours of operation, restrooms, drinking water, parking and other matters of importance to travelers.

Hanley said businesses may contact the Illinois Department of Transportation, Bureau of Traffic, Logo Sign Program, 2300 Dirksen Parkway, Springfield, Ill. 62764.

Kickers dominate stat sheet, but get scoreless tie

GRANITE CITY — The soccer Warriors did everything right against Quincy Monday night except put the ball in the goal. Granite City outshot the Blue Devils by a 2-to-1 margin and had a wide advantage in almost every statistical category, except the one that counts — the score. The match ended in a 0-0 stalemate.

"To say the least, it's very frustrating," said Granite City coach Gene Baker, whose team is now 4-0-1. "You're disappointed, especially when you have the lopsided statistics."

Perhaps the only bright spot was that the Warriors still have not given up a goal in five games this year.

Still, that fact was a moot point. Baker, in particular, was not pleased. The Warriors got a severe tongue-lashing after the game. The post-game meeting lasted for more than 40 minutes.

"Physically, I think we worked hard," Baker said. "But I don't think we worked hard emotionally or mentally."

Quincy, which returned only three starters from last year, viewed the game as the ultimate confidence-builder.

"I couldn't be happier," said Blue Devil coach Al Knepler. "My kids really worked hard. I think this is the first time we've tied them here."

Knepler, who guided Quincy Notre Dame to the state championship last year over Collinsville, now has a record of 5-1-2 as the Blue Devil mentor.

"We're a young team, so each game we get more and more confidence," Knepler said. "This kind of game will give us a big boost." The Warriors outshot Quincy by a whopping 40-15 margin and forced 16 corner kicks in the Blue Devil area. However, Granite City just couldn't seem to finish the play.

"Poor shot selection," Baker lamented. "We were trying to boom them from about 20 to 30 yards out, but with the type of pressure we were able to put on, we should have taken the ball straight to the goal."

Time and time again, Granite

City was able to penetrate the Blue Devil defense, but had nothing to show for its efforts.

"We were beating them to the wings. It seemed like everytime down," Baker said. "But then we would release the ball too early or shoot at funny angles."

"We made their goalie look like a hero."

Blue Devil goalie Tony Butler was called upon to make several saves. Perhaps the best came in the second 10-minute overtime session.

Steve Becker fired a bullet from in front of the goal, but Butler, who appeared to be screened on the play, made a kick save with his right leg.

"Believe it or not, Tony didn't have a single minute of varsity experience before this year," Knepler said. "But he really played well."

As it had during the game, Granite City dominated the overtime sessions. The Warriors' best chance in the first extra period was by Brett Bjorkman, whose header off of a Billy Aleksandrian corner kick was just wide.

Quincy's best chance was by Brian Foley, whose shot was deflected over the top of the bar by Matt Kresovich.

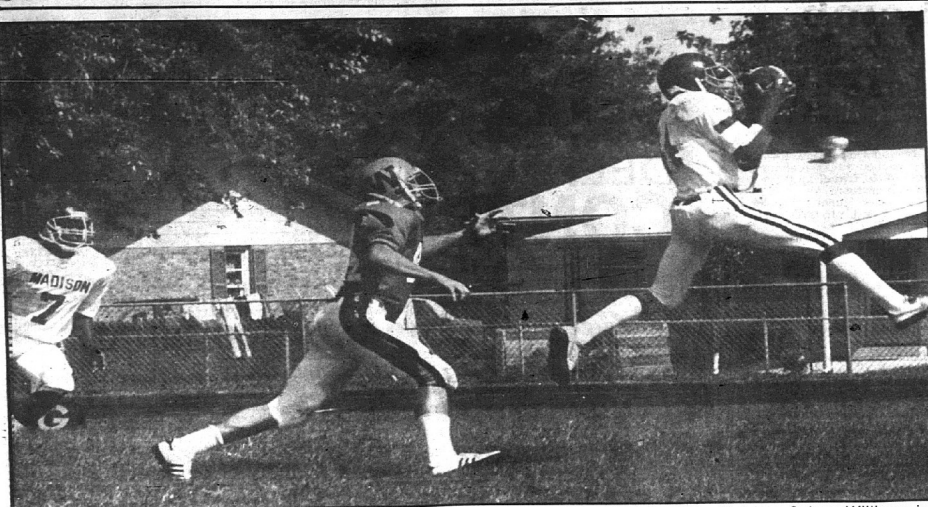

"I thought Kres played well," Baker said. "He was tested a few times and had to come up with some good saves."

The second overtime was all Granite City as the Warriors outshot Quincy 4-0. With 6:16 left, Dave DeRousse kicked one just over the top of the goal.

Two minutes later, Becker's shot was kicked out by Butler. With 4:40 left, DeRousse had another opportunity when he walked in, but elected to pass off. The ball rolled across the goal and was cleared.

"They had a lot more opportunities than we did," Knepler said. "But our defense bent but didn't break. When you look at this

WATERLOO — All things considered, maybe 28-8 wasn't so bad. The Madison Trojans were completely whipped by a fundamentally sound Waterloo Bulldog team here Saturday afternoon, as the Trojans suffered their first defeat of the year.

The Bulldogs, 2-1, outgained Madison 164-3 in the first half, and the Trojans were fortunate to only be trailing 14-0 at halftime. But Doug Lucas returned the second half kickoff 77 yards for a touchdown, and Madison was finished.

"We weren't ready to play today," said a confused Don Smith after the game. "I don't know what the players were thinking about out there, but it sure wasn't football."

It was a long comedown for the Trojans, who had rolled to easy victories over Vandalia and Columbia in the first two weeks. For the Bulldogs, they came through a tough opening three weeks with a 2-1 record. They also beat East St. Louis Assumption and lost a fairly close game to Duplo.

"We've got a senior-dominated team," said first year coach Jerry Germain, former head coach at Duplo. "So we feel like we should be able to compete pretty well. The kids were excited about the first home game, and we got off to a quick start."

A quick start, indeed. On the third play of the game, Quincy Williams and Angelo Cross missed connections on a pitchout, and Cross had to fall on the ball at his own 13 for an 18-yard loss. After Robbie Poston punted to midfield, the Bulldogs used only three plays to score.

On third and seven, quarterback Mike Marquis handed off to Clay Metzger on a counter play, and the senior halfback went through virtually untouched for a 50-yard score after only 4:09.

Clay Moehrs' PAT was good. Then he kicked off, and the low kick bounced off Craig Ingram and was recovered by Waterloo's Lucas at the Madison 43. Brian Metzger made a great diving catch at the 23, then Clay Metzger got three yards on fourth and three to the 20. On the next play, Marquis found Brian Metzger alone in the right corner of the end zone, and with 3:42 left in the first quarter, the Bulldogs led 14-0.

"I'm trying different people on defense," Smith said. "We've got a lot of juniors, and they're an all-senior team. It will take us a while. But they hit us pretty quick at the start of the game."

The Trojans finally got something going when Williams hit Gary Stanley for 33 yards to the Waterloo 31, but the threat ended when Williams was sacked twice for losses totalling 21 yards.

"Quincy is still taking a little too much time back there," Smith said. "And our offensive line just has to get better at picking up the blitzing linebackers. That was killing us all day."

Meanwhile, the Trojans were having a tough time establishing their running game as well. Cross was hounded by the Bulldogs everytime he had the ball, and he had seven carries for minus four yards in the first half.

"People are gunning for him," Smith said. "But the good backs do well even with other teams gunning for them. I'm probably going

GRANITE CITY — What started out as a promising season is now threatening to become a lost season.

The Granite City Campus Stars, winners of their first two games in 1986, now have gone five games without a win, dropping a 2-1 decision to the McKendree College junior varsity team Monday at GCC.

The Stars ended a four-game losing streak with a 4-1 tie Sunday afternoon at home against Johnson County, but they couldn't rebound against a seemingly out-manned Bearcat team.

"It could be a long season at this pace," said a bewildered Larry Petri after the game. "The main problem with this team now is attitude. Soccer is more of a team game than some of the other sports, and you just can't have fighting among yourselves."

The McKendree players no doubt heard some of the Stars' players arguing with each other during the game, which had to give them confidence. The Bearcats had only 11 players at the game, and they played almost 10 minutes in the first half with 10 men when Brian Thouvenot sat down with an injury.

The dreams of two shortstops

A guy who writes a column on any subject, it seems, never knows where he'll find one. A chance meeting at a Granite City High School football game produces several good ones, I hope. Or one might simply be walking along Grand Avenue after his wife's car had conked out. And there, painting on a old friend, you recognize an old friend, now retired.

It was Dwight Jackson. Most of his friends who knew him the many years he directed the activities at the huge warehouse of the old Tri-City Grocery chain called him Deacon, or Jack.

After expanding to 32 super markets and closing most of the smaller stores in the Granite City area, the family-owned chain did real well. Then in the mid-1970s, it became harder to turn a profit, and the business was closed in 1979. To the native Granite Citians,

Sports of All Sorts

By Al Barnes

something went out of their lives. For my eldest son, Alvin III, the job with Tri-City was the first and only job he ever had.

But that little bit of history isn't the point. It concerns Deacon Jackson, now around 80, but lean and thin as in the days he was a top-flight shortstop for local teams. As a result of his standout play, he received numerous offers to turn pro.

But, married and with a child to feed, he couldn't do it, with the average parent clubs paying only a little more than $125 per month. And that was for just five months at the most. Jackson had to give up his dream of playing baseball professionally.

But he's never lost his love for the game.

One of the many persons working in the warehouse for Jackson was Alvin Maxvill, who knew the game of baseball better than most men ever did. When her son Dal finished at Washington U., where he starred in baseball and was signed by the Cardinals, his mother followed his progress up through the Redbirds' chain.

As it happened, when Dal's club played at Davenport, Iowa, Alvin approached Jackson about taking time off to travel up there to see her son perform.

"I never turned her down," Jackson said. "In fact, I went with her in spirit, because Dal was representing a lot of us who never made it, and we were all pulling for him to make it to the bigs."

So now when Jackson wants an autographed baseball for one of his grandsons, Cardinal general manager Dal Maxvill takes care of him promptly.

From this corner, there's no doubt that Maxvill will be one of the original nominees to be elected to Granite City's coming Sports Hall of Fame.

have been frustration on our part," Petri said. "But what gives the other team confidence is us letting them turn and do things they normally aren't able to do. McKendree came in here expecting to get hammered, and they should have been."

From then on, the Stars pressed forward and had most of the chances, but their shots were either off target or right at goalie Mike Engel. Engel made his best save on a Craig Coffelt header which he just tipped over the bar.

At the 78:00 mark, the Stars came very close. Darryl Schilling dribbled into point blank range, but fired one off the crossbar. Sean Fronbarger lunged for the rebound and headed it, but it also hit the crossbar.

Finally, on the Stars' next rush, Pat Phillips, a freshman from Cahokia, picked up a loose ball in the slot and beat Engel to make it a 2-1 game.

George Lauria, Schilling and Jerry Lakin all had chances after that, but each missed the net or good shots.

"We're not a team," Petri said. "Some ego and personal goals are leading to team breakdowns. Individually just won't do it in this sport."

"We knew they would be tired after Sunday's game, but if we get out in front of McKendree, they would fall apart. But they get a couple of goals instead. I said at the beginning of the year we could only give up one goal a game. But our total team defense has broken down, not just the fullbacks."

The Stars had a few chances to claim the lead in the first half, but McKendree had the better chances. Sonkers kept them in the game with good saves in the opening 45 minutes.

Meramac is in town for a 3 p.m. game today, and Petri is not exactly optimistic.

That one will probably be a loss the way we're going right now," he said. "The only question would seem to be the final score."

"We can change that. The key to success, is changing some attitudes. We have to work as a team and sacrifice. That's not happening now."

The Stars outshot the Bearcats 32-14, and had eight corner kicks to six for McKendree.

to shift out of the 1 formation this week. Angelo just isn't a blocking back at the fullback spot. We'll probably split the backs and run some power 1."

Stephen Boyd intercepted to end another Waterloo threat, but the Bulldogs got another chance after Poston was apparently roughed on a punt, but no call was made. "We needed a good officiated game today," Smith said. "And we didn't get it. And the next time it happened, they called it, but Poston gets into it with the guy and he's kicked out."

In the first half, Waterloo had 164 yards. The Trojans had three goals at the end of the half, but they got the points back quickly. Lucas took the kickoff and headed right. He was caught in a maze of players near the 40-yard line, but suddenly burst out and beat everyone down the sideline after just 15 seconds of play in the third quarter.

"We had some bad tackling all day," Smith said. "And tackling is just a matter of wanting to do it."

The Trojans caught a break when Poston was roughed, although he and Roger Rice were ejected for mixing it up. Cross finally broke through for a 54-yard run to the Waterloo 3, then Boyd crashed over with 8:45 left. Lamont Prothro ran in for a two-point conversion.

Madison got the ball back and drove to the 19, but on fourth down, a reverse to Prothro lost three yards. They then moved to a first down at the Waterloo 10 early in the fourth quarter, but got only two yards in three plays before Prothro fumbled on a reverse, and John Mormann fell on the ball for the Bulldogs.

Waterloo then ran out the clock, but not without incident. On second and 12 from their own 35, Marquis tried to hit Brian Metzger, who caught five passes for 68 yards, on a bomb over the middle. The ball went off his hands, and Metzger and Quincy Williams went to the ground hard.

They wrestled and threw a couple of punches before being separated, and they were both ejected.

"The guy elbowed Quincy when they were on the ground," Smith said.

A 39-yard run by David Maurer set the Bulldogs up at the 3, and Marquis then threw a touchdown pass to Clay Metzger with 19 seconds left.

Smith wasn't happy with the effort he saw.

"I saw a couple of quitters out there today," he said. "It was hot, and some of them didn't play too hard after we got behind. It was the worst game I've had since I've been here (fourth year)."

"We weren't overconfident. We knew they had beaten Assumption. This game will benefit us. You hate to work them too hard when you're winning, but something like this should wake them up. We were in a daze today. We literally stunk up the place."

Cross finished with 70 yards on 15 carries. Williams was 2 of 7 for 42 yards, but he was sacked four times for 43 yards in losses. The Trojans had 100 total yards to 245 for Waterloo.

Clay Metzger had 60 yards on five carries as Waterloo had 170 yards rushing. Marquis completed 7 of 11 for 73 yards and two touchdowns. The Bulldogs had 12 first downs to only six for Madison.

The Trojans are at home this week for a Friday game at 7:30 p.m. against Breese Central, which last 46-0 to Assumption Saturday.

Warriors

game on paper, they dominated, but the final result is to put the ball in the net, and we stopped them there.

The Warriors will be thrown right back into the fire and were to play Bellevue West on Tuesday. That is a makeup of a game rained out last Thursday. Granite City is 1-0 in the Southwestern Conference.

In other developments, Jason Smith was hobbled with recurring ankle trouble. His condition will be updated on a daily basis.

"He was fine for most of the game," Baker said. "But then he got taken down hard and it caused him some trouble."

NOTES: The game with Collinsville that was rained out on Sept. 11 has been rescheduled for Oct. 19 at home. Krokovich now has four shutouts on the season. Rusty Ethridge started in goal for Granite against Bellevue West.
